EXPERT REPORT RE: ANTHROPIC

I. Background and Qualifications

1. I specialize in systematically comparing and analyzing musical passages, holding three degrees in music theory: a Ph.D. and M.A. from the Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester; and a B.A. from the University of British Columbia. I currently teach in two music faculties—UNAM (widely considered the top university in Latin America) and Anáhuac University (consistently ranked in the top 5 private universities in Mexico). My research has been published in academic peer-reviewed journals, where I used statistical approaches to vocal melody, rhythm, and groove in popular music; and I have written Expert Analysis columns for Law360. I have presented my research internationally and have been recognized by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council, receiving their prestigious Fellowship for my research contributions. I was the editor for the music theory encyclopedia, The Architecture of Music, and have provided forensic musicology and copyright consultation for numerous law firms, with my work featured in Rolling Stone, Stereogum, and more. As a seasoned educator, I have taught music theory, production, composition, audio engineering, and ear training to hundreds of students. I have provided my music-analytical opinion on TV networks including ABC and CBS. I also have extensive experience as a professional composer and audio engineer, with my music featured by companies such as Adobe.

2. Appendix 1 shows my curriculum vitae for further details.

II. Introduction

3. I have been retained by the law firm WilmerHale, Counsel for Anthropic PBC at the rate of $300/hr to assess certain outputs of text generated by the artificial intelligence system Claude as identified by Plaintiffs' experts, and the existing analyses and discussions thereof by Plaintiffs' experts. My compensation is not related to my conclusions nor the outcome of this lawsuit.

4. The materials considered in making my assessment are:

5. In forming my expert opinions, I draw upon my formal education, academic research experience in the fields of music theory and music cognition, professional industry experience as a songwriter, pedagogical experience teaching university courses and private students in subjects including songwriting and lyrics, and my professional experience as a forensic musicologist in legal cases. My opinions are based on my specialized education and experience. I am not intending to offer legal opinions. This report presents my current opinions based on the information made available to me, and may be modified or supplemented as necessary.

6. The purpose of this rebuttal report is to respond to certain opinions of Plaintiffs' expert reports submitted by Dr. Robert Leonard and Mr. Joshua Dennis. Due to the significant complexity and size of the data involved in this case, I was asked to focus on assessing specific aspects of the case:

a) Dr. Leonard's methodology and analyses;

b) the 37 Claude files classified under Mr. Dennis's Prompt Categories 8 ("Request for new song lyrics based upon provided artist(s), song title(s) or lyrics") and 9 ("Request for new song lyrics based upon provided topic(s)") (the 37 files are listed in ¶ 4 above) from what Mr. Dennis calls the "Work-in-Suit" records;

c) a random sample from Dennis's Output Categories 1 ("Output contains lyrics (no copyright Guardrail noted)") and 3 ("Output contains lyrics and copyright Guardrail noted") from the "Work-in-Suit" records; and

d) examples from other Prompt Categories in the "Work-in-Suit" records identified in Mr. Dennis's report.

Given the nature and timing of the report, it will function as both a response to problems that I perceive in Dr. Leonard's and Mr. Dennis's reports, as well as presenting my remedies/solutions in the form of my own methodology, analysis, and results.

7. My assessment (detailed below) is that Dr. Leonard's methodology suffers from serious questions of reliability, particularly in his coding methodology, the lack of a quantitative similarity metric, and the absence of filtering. There are also concerns about bias in the sample selection. Meanwhile, I also find errors in many of Mr. Dennis's Prompt Categories and Output Categories.

8. In my similarity analyses of the 37 Work-in-Suit records under Prompt Categories 8 and 9 (those involving generation of original lyrics), I find a quantitative result that the Claude outputs are, in the grand majority, strongly different from the allegedly infringed lyrics. I also track that the vast majority of prompts under these categories were created with parodic intent. Finally, in assessing a random sample of non-original lyrics from Dennis's Output Categories 1 and 3, I find that the overwhelming majority are extremely small verbatim fragments (quoting on average 5% of the song's lyrics).

III. Methodology: Coding

9. I find several issues with Dr. Leonard's report. First, I will discuss his coding methodology, which is as follows:[1]

Verbatim	Word-for-word matches between the LyricFind Lyrics and Claude
Orthographic	Word-for-word matches between the LyricFind Lyrics and Claude response that differ only in their capitalization, punctuation, spelling, or spacing (i.e., "Aunt > aunt", "Cause > 'Cause", "loving > lovin'", "alright > all right"); often motivated by differences in line breaks
Near-Verbatim	Lexical matches between the LyricFind Lyrics and Claude response that change the specific form of the words used (i.e., "should not > shouldn't", "lip > lips", "free > freed")
Missing Repetition	Sections of language missing typically from the Claude response that are repetitions of earlier, previously reproduced lines or stanzas, including choruses
Missing	Non-overlap, where one dataset does not have language found in the other; often applies to "meta-lyrics" such as lyrics attributed to background singers and non-words (i.e., "ooh", "oh", "yeah") or other meta-expressions (i.e., "[Chorus]", "[Outro]"), or meaningless function words (i.e., "Well", "So")
Different	Non-matches, usually of single words or lexical bundles, where the words substantively differ (i.e., "liked > loved", "he > it", "loves me > cares"); often still indicative of discourse topic overlap or shared semantic meaning

I find the distinction between Missing and Different to be unnecessary. They both represent lyrics that are non-similar between the two datasets (LyricFind vs. Claude). By breaking the non-similar lyrics into two categories (Missing and Different), while marking verbatim lyrics under only one category (Verbatim), Leonard's method often visually downplays the weight of the non-similar lyrics. Take this example:[2]

[1] See for example, p. 1 of Appendix C of the Leonard report.

And I spent a lot of time
The trip we made to Hollywood
Is etched upon my mind
After all the things we've done and seen
You find another man

Under Leonard's coding methodology, Verbatim, Different, and Missing all appear to be about equal in weight. But, unlike Leonard's description, the phrases coded as "Missing" (as seen in the examples above and below) are not limited to "meta-lyrics" at all; they are just Different. Through this dilution, this visual organizational scheme artificially inflates the perceived weight of Verbatim. By contrast, under a simplified coding methodology where Different and Missing are collapsed, it can be seen that in fact the majority of the excerpt is simply Different:

And I spent a lot of time
The trip we made to Hollywood
Is etched upon my mind
After all the things we've done and seen
You find another man

Another example comes from page 7 of Leonard's Appendix E:

[2] Leonard Report, p. 118.

Where to go to, why don't you go, Where fashion sits? Putting On The Ritz. Different types, who wear a day, Co-pants with stripes, and cut away, Coat, perfect fits? Putting On The Ritz. Dressed up like a million dollar trooper, Trying hard to look like Gary Cooper. Super-duper	Where to go to Why don't you go where fashion sits Puttin' on the Ritz Spangled gowns upon the bevy Of high browns from down the levee All misfits Puttin' on the Ritz That's where each and every Lulu-belle Goes every afternoon at four Rubbing elbows with a blue blood On a spree or three odd Highly-polished Hats and stickpins Tailor-made, everything That's very swell

By contrast, if we collapse Different and Missing it can be recoded as:

Where to go to, why don't you go, Where fashion sits? Putting On The Ritz. Different types, who wear a day, Co-pants with stripes, and cut away, Coat, perfect fits? Putting On The Ritz. Dressed up like a million dollar trooper, Trying hard to look like Gary Cooper. Super-duper	Where to go to Why don't you go where fashion sits Puttin' on the Ritz Spangled gowns upon the bevy Of high browns from down the levee All misfits Puttin' on the Ritz That's where each and every Lulu-belle Goes every afternoon at four Rubbing elbows with a blue blood On a spree or three odd Highly-polished Hats and stickpins Tailor-made, everything That's very swell

Visually, we can now immediately see in a clear way that the majority of the excerpt is in fact Different.[3]

10. Therefore, in my coding methodology, Different and Missing are collapsed into one category: Different.

11. I also find Dr. Leonard's Orthographic category unnecessary. These are sounding lyrics for musical compositions whose dissemination and consumption are, in the vast majority of cases, heard rather than read. (Consider as evidence the fact that most of the Deposit Copies produced in this case—produced for only 13 of the 499 Works-in-Suit—are purely audio-only.)[4] Spelling and punctuation is thus not relevant—audible differences are. Therefore, "word" vs. "word." (punctuation) merits no coding distinction; nor does "I'm" vs. "Im" (apostrophe); nor does "Word" vs. "word" (capitalization). On the other hand, some differences that Leonard considers Orthographic (for example, "morning" vs. "mornin'"), I consider as Near-Verbatim, given that they do involve a difference in sound. (And as described below, because the text of the lyrics is set against melody, harmony, and rhythm—among other elements of musical compositions—how the lyrics sound matters for determining the likeness between two data sets.)

12. In short, I find that Leonard's Orthographic category is actually a conflation of some cases that ought to be Verbatim, with other cases that ought to be Near-Verbatim. In my coding methodology, Orthographic is simply eliminated. By eliminating the Orthographic category, I believe my methodology more accurately models how the text might appear in connection with the overall musical composition.

[3] Technically, "putting" and "puttin'" would be coded as Near-Verbatim, which has not been discussed thus far in this report; only Verbatim and Different are presented in this example, for clarity of demonstration.
[4] See O'Connor, Sean M. and Bennett, Joe, "Determining the Composition", The Oxford Handbook of Music Law & Policy (2022).

13. It is my opinion that Dr. Leonard's Missing Repetition category is also unnecessary. Because the Missing Repetition coding shows internally (i.e. within one lyric) repeated material, it is used to show both similar and dissimilar text: that is, sometimes it represents text that occurs in both lyrics, while other times it represents text that only occurs in one lyric. This confusing situation occurs even within the same song. For instance, consider this excerpt from page 42 of Appendix E of the Leonard report, where he codes Missing Repetition both for content that does occur in both lyrics ("It's easier to run...") and for content that only occurs in one lyric and not the other (the stanza beginning with "If I could change I would take back the pain I would..."):

Bringing back these memories I wish I didn't have Sometimes I think of letting go and never looking back And never moving forward so there'd never be a past If I could change I would take back the pain I would Retrace every wrong move that I made I would If I could stand up and take the blame I would If I could take all the shame to the grave I would If I could change I would take back the pain I would Retrace every wrong move that I made I would If I could stand up and take the blame I would I would take all the shame to the grave Just washing it aside All of the helplessness inside Pretending I don't feel misplaced Is so much simpler than change It's easier to run Replacing this pain with something numb It's so much easier to go Than face all this pain here all alone It's easier to run If I could change I would take back the pain I would Retrace every wrong move that I made It's easier to go If I could change I would take back the pain I would Retrace every wrong move that I made I would If I could stand up and take the blame I would I would take all the shame to the grave	Bringing back these memories I wish I didn't have Sometimes I think of letting go and never looking back And never moving forward so there'd never be a past (Chorus) It's easier to run Replacing this pain with something numb It's so much easier to go Than face all this pain here all alone Just washing it aside All of the helplessness inside Pretending I don't feel misplaced It's so much simpler than change (Chorus) It's easier to run Replacing this pain with something numb It's so much easier to go Than face all this pain here all alone It's easier to run It's easier to run

Given that the entire purpose of these analyses is to purportedly assess similarity, Dr. Leonard's approach appears to lack rigor. Missing Repetition is used by Leonard to mark later occurrences of a line within the same lyric, without regard for whether it occurs in the comparison lyric or not. However, such a formal distinction has no benefit in bringing us closer to viewing and measuring similarity. In fact, in many cases it does the opposite, only further minimizing the perceived weight of differences by diluting them across multiple categories and colors.

14. In my opinion, Leonard's Missing Repetition is in fact a special case of what I call Long-Range Verbatim. In other words, the real distinction here is between Local Verbatim (where the same word or string of words occurs at a corresponding or nearby line between the two lyrics) and Long-Range Verbatim (where the same word or string of words occurs between the two lyrics, but at a larger distance away). The question then becomes how to define where local becomes long-range. I use four lines as the threshold for locality, as in my experience, four lines is the typical minimum unit for a stanza or self-standing formal section (i.e. Verse, Chorus, Pre-Chorus) in a song. Therefore, if two words or word-strings occur within less than four lines of each other, I code their principal occurrence as Local Verbatim; otherwise, I code them as Long-Range Verbatim.[5]

15. I also find Dr. Leonard's coding methodology overly restrictive—that is, I code similarity more liberally. For example, in my coding methodology, Near-Verbatim does not just include different forms of the same word ("tree" and "trees"), but also even includes different pronouns as long as they communicate the same message. For example, in Anthropic_0000098401 ("I Will Survive"), between "I will survive" and "We will survive" I apply a Near-Verbatim coding to the "I" and "We", as in this lyrical context, they both communicate the same fundamental message—only that the "We" makes the message collective. Another example is in Anthropic_0000032987a ("Time After Time"), where both the LyricFind and Claude lyrics include the words "find" or "time", and these are counted as Long-Range Verbatim, despite occurring in isolation and at long range, and despite being fairly common themes. In many cases, I even consider shared grammatical fragments as similarities where there is a clear parallelism: for example, in Anthropic_0000092071a ("White Christmas"), in sentences in the Claude output beginning with "where", "may" and "with", these isolated words are coded as similar, because of their grammatical parallelism with the LyricFind lyric despite the rest of the sentence being completely different.[6] I find Dr. Leonard's analyses inconsistent in that they tend to code longer strings as similar, while not also highlighting individual keywords or shorter word strings every time they occur. For example, in Anthropic_0000245869 ("TikTok"), Leonard codes the following situation as Different:

[5] More technically, I define locality as a maximum distance of three lines away in either direction (up or down), not including the line itself, and not including the first space between stanzas. A one-to-one mapping is used, such that if for example LyricFind has "dog" twice in a line while Claude has "dog" once, only the first "dog" in LyricFind is coded as Local Verbatim; the second "dog" is coded as Long-Range Verbatim.

LyricFind	Claude
Police shut us down, down Po-po shut us down	Police shut us down, down Police shut us down

Compare my coding:

LyricFind	Claude
Police shut us down, down Po-po shut us down	Police shut us down, down Police shut us down

Under my coding method, a higher level of detail and consistency is applied. "Po-po" is only found in LyricFind, and is thus coded as Different; meanwhile, all instances of "police" are coded as Long-Range Verbatim, as the word/theme is found in LyricFind.

[6] In these cases, evidently some judgment calls had to be made; it is standard practice, and one which I've used before, in forensic musicology—as it deals with the arts—to inevitably make certain subjective calls. The critical factor is for the analyst to present their methodology in full, and to make clear which steps are objective vs. subjective. Even in somewhat subjective decisions such as identifying grammatical parallelism, I believe that the majority of music and lyrics experts would concur.

16. In my analyses, I have preserved the line breaks from LyricFind and Claude.[7] My assumption is that, all else equal, a line in LyricFind and a line in Claude will last the same duration of time. In cases where a single line spills over into a second line—which is sheerly an artefact of the limited width of the table in the word processor—I add an extra line break to the corresponding other lyric, to cancel out the extra line and therefore create a normalization between the two lyrics. With this method, the line count between lyrics can be preserved, allowing for accurate comparisons.[8] Take the following example from my analysis of Anthropic_0000022272, where the LyricFind lines 1 and 2 each spill over into two lines, warranting extra line breaks in Claude to normalize:

LyricFind	Claude
Wake up in the mornin' feelin' like P Diddy (hey, what up girl?) Grab my glasses, I'm out the door, I'm gonna hit this city (let's go) Before I leave, brush my teeth with a bottle of Jack 'Cause when I leave for the night, I ain't comin' back	Waking up before the bell rings Gotta be early for all my classes Eating breakfast as I brush my teeth Can't be late, no time to waste
I'm talkin' pedicure on our toes, toes Tryin' on all our clothes, clothes Boys blowin' up our phones, phones Drop-toppin', playin' our favorite CDs	'Cause everyday I'm hustlin' Gotta work hard, no time for slacking Study and read, get good grades Ace that test, keep my mind sharp

[7] Please note that standard practice requires the use of deposit copies instead of LyricFind, but my understanding from Counsel is that they have not been provided for all Works-in-Suit in the case.
[8] Other formatting details include: 1) redacted PERSON_NAME is replaced with "PERSON", and counted as two syllables, which is a reasonable guess for a typical English name. In cases where the LyricFind lyric also has a person's name in a similar sentence (for example, "Goodbye, Norma Jeane" in LyricFind vs. "Goodbye PERSON" in Claude), I omit both names from analysis, as it is possible they are the same, but not known. 2) Where Claude names formal sections (e.g. "Chorus"), these are not printed in the analysis and not included in the comparison, as these words would not be part of a heard musical lyric. If the formal section requested is clearly defined, I do provide it; otherwise, it must be simply ignored (as in Anthropic_0000339676 where it is not clear what lyrics "Chorus" refers to).

Due to the line breaks, the fifth line of LyricFind ("I'm talkin' pedicure on our toes, toes") is now vertically aligned with the fifth line of Claude ("'Cause everyday I'm hustlin'"), allowing for direct comparison between equivalently-numbered lines.

17. In contrast, Dr. Leonard breaks the lines in his analyses without any apparent rationale, other than to highlight similarity. See, for example, this excerpt (Leonard Report, Appendix C at p. 21):

When you fall, I'll take my turn And fan the flames As your blazes burn We can't wait To burn it to the ground When you fall, I'll take my turn And fan the flames As your blazes burn We can't wait To burn it to the ground	When you fall, I'll take my turn And fan the flames As your blazes burn We're building it up To break it back down We're building it up To burn it down We can't wait To burn it to the ground

It appears that what was originally a single line break in LyricFind has been greatly extended in order to line up "We can't wait / To burn it to the ground". (While this excerpt clearly contains shared lines, that is beside the point: the message here is that similarity should be demonstrated in a measured, objective way following a consistent methodology, which I find lacking in Leonard).

18. We can assume that each lyrical line will tend to occupy the same amount of time. Music is in many respects "isochronous" (units of equally recurring duration), being composed of recurring equal-duration, symmetrical units such as beats, bars, and phrases, and this approach extends to lyrical lines also, even if their syllable count may be different.[9]

19. It must be remembered that what we are assessing are lyrics from musical compositions; not just stand-alone text. Ultimately, the words that comprise the lyrics cannot be divorced from the other aspects of a musical composition, including pitch, rhythm, harmony, and how those words fit within the overall musical structure (aka. musical form).[10] Further evidence for this claim comes from the fact that a Deposit Copy—and the very definition of a musical work—consists of both music and lyrics (rather than lyrics on their own).[11] Of course, Claude's outputs are text-only and do not include any other elements of a musical composition (melody, harmony, rhythm, etc.) and therefore it should be noted carefully that, even in the case of a complete match between

But I think you mentioned rhythm and harmony, and pitch and key and tone and all kinds of different things. […] Q. Typically, Concord obtains a copyright for an entire musical composition, correct? A. In the United States, yes."); Deposition of Bart Herbison 55:14-56:4 ("Q. What comprises a musical composition? […] THE WITNESS: Words and Music. […] Q. They're always words and music in a musical composition? […] THE WITNESS: No. Sometimes it's just music. Sometimes it's acapella. But for the vast, vast, high 90th percentile of popular music, it's going to be a combination, is my suspicion."); Deposition of Alisa Coleman 49:23-25 ("Q. ABKCO's copyrights in the compositions are to the music and lyrics, right? A. Correct."); Deposition of William Pittenger 43:9-14 ("Q. And what is a musical composition copyright? […] A. It's a copyright for the musical composition, for the music, lyrics, melody.").

Deposit Copy lyrics and Claude lyrics, this still only equates to a match in one aspect, out of many, of a complete composition. To give a quotidian example: it suffices to merely hum "Yesterday" by The Beatles, and the work is still instantly recognizable—thus demonstrating that even in a purely wordless sense (i.e. with no lyrics), the song still retains its identity. In fact, one could change the lyrics completely, and still recognize the song by its melody and chords; meanwhile, the converse is not true (imagine the lyrics of "Yesterday" set to a completely different melody).

20. Local Verbatim between two lyrics will be more cognitively salient than Long-Range Verbatim. This is because—all else equal and in the absence of more complete musical information—if the same word or word-string occurs at the same or nearby corresponding line, this means that they are occurring at similar timepoints in the two songs, and often parallel structural sections as well. This allows me to capture, in part, the other musical elements that Leonard does not consider.

21. Therefore, in line with the reasoning stated above, my simplified coding methodology, that I use in my analyses, is as follows:

Local Verbatim	Exact matches between LyricFind and Claude, occurring within less than four lines of each other.
Long-Range Verbatim	Exact matches between LyricFind and Claude, occurring at least four lines away from each other or if a Local Verbatim has already occurred for that same match.
Near-Verbatim	Different forms of the same word or string (e.g. “tree” vs. “trees”, “I will jump” vs. “I’m going to jump”), and equivalencies of perspective where meaningful (e.g. “I” vs. “we”, “you” vs. “they”). Note that long-range near-verbatims also occur here.
Different	Does not appear in both lyrics

IV. Methodology: Filtering

22. In my experience analyzing similarity in music—and it is my understanding that this applies to any field of art—in determining the significance or originality of any noted similarities, it is standard practice to first filter out elements that are common to the field. This includes filtering out "building blocks" or expected, unremarkable matters of course. Having done so, the analyst can then proceed to consider more substantive (i.e. meaningful) similarities.[12] In his report, Dr. Leonard discusses the phenomenon of common, high-frequency language:

> Even when strong indicia of copying are present, part of the role of a forensic linguist is to consider alternative explanations for the similarities between two documents. For instance, long common word strings may be nothing more than . . . set phrases commonly used in a particular language, culture, or industry.
> Another specific kind of formulaic language that is less recognizable but still clearly available for public use are called lexical or word bundles—sequences of words that commonly go together in speech or writing that appear with a high level of frequency. So, by definition, if a writer were to use a well-established lexical bundle that a prior writer has also used (e.g., I think that…, I wonder if…), it would not necessarily constitute a case of copying.[13]

[12] See Burkholder, J. Peter, "Musical borrowing or curious coincidence?: Testing the evidence", The Journal of Musicology, Vol. 35, Issue 2, pp. 223–266 (2018): "How can we be sure that a similarity between two pieces results from borrowing and is not a coincidence, or the result of drawing on a shared fund of musical ideas?" (p. 224); "Even a relatively extensive and exact match . . . is insufficient if the elements the two pieces share also appear in other works" (p. 234); "two pieces using these elements could simply be drawing on the same fund of conventional material" (p. 234). See also LaRue, Jan, "Significant and coincidental resemblance between classical themes", The Journal of the American Musicological Society XIV/2 (1961): "The task of stylistic analysis is not to enumerate all possible melodic analogues (no matter how fortuitous), but rather to discover those that are relevant and illuminating" (p. 269); "observed similarities should pass through a rigorous screening to separate significant resemblances from mere coincidences" (p. 269); "The frequent occurrence of generic resemblances . . . evidently justifies great caution in thematic analysis. Under such conditions many similarities would better be regarded as coincidental rather than significant or intentional" (pp. 278-280).

[13] Leonard Report, ¶¶ 23, 28 (emphasis added).

However, despite his seeming awareness of these issues, there is no place in his report where he actually applies these principles of filtration in his methodology. In fact, he does not discuss doing any filtering at all. Therefore, I am led to believe that he did not filter out the "formulaic", "lexical bundles" that he himself brings to our attention.[14]

23. In my methodology, my approach to filtering was as follows: I filtered out high-frequency (common) words to the extent that they were not part of an existing string or forming a grammatical parallelism. In other words, the filtered-out word or string does not perturb the reigning coding: if it occurs as part of a Verbatim string, it does not mark a change to Different; and vice versa—if it occurs as part of a Different string, it will not change the coding to Verbatim. Context is important in determining when a word is Verbatim vs. simply filtered-out. This is best reflected in my approach to distinctive keywords. If both lyrics mention "find" or "look"—as is the case in Anthropic_0000032987a ("Time After Time")—these are considered distinctive keywords and coded as Verbatim (or Long-Range Verbatim, depending on the case). This is because, despite being relatively common verbs, the recurrence of "find" and "look" various times in either lyric is a meaningful similarity and recurring theme between the two lyrics. All else equal, high-frequency words (for example, "the") or high-frequency word strings (for example, "it is") appearing in isolation are filtered out from any kind of Verbatim or Long-Range Verbatim consideration. In contrast, when they occur as part of a larger or more meaningful word or string, these high-frequency events are coded the same as the string to which they belong, as they do add a sort of "padding" that augments the extent of the similarity. I also acknowledge grammatical parallelism (see ¶ 15 above). But for words or short strings occurring in isolation and without grammatical parallelism, it is only more meaningful, thematic, or low-frequency words or strings that receive Verbatim (or Long-Range Verbatim) status. By this method, I filter out words or strings that occur simply as a matter of course, while still being able to identify isolated, and sometimes long-range, thematic or grammatical parallelisms.

[14] He does mention in his coding table that the Different coding usually consists of lexical bundles, but what I do not see is how he handles lexical bundles in cases of similarity.

24. In sum, Dr. Leonard approaches the lyrics as rarified linguistic exhibits, instead of renderable musical lyrics that sound in time and in connection with other musical elements as described above. In my opinion, I find lacking:

- a consistent principle for line organization
- a consistent and clear coding methodology
- an objective and reliable similarity measurement
- the filtering out of common words and word strings

V. Methodology: Selection Criteria

25. Mr. Dennis presents 14 prompt categories in his report:[15]

1) Request for lyrics based upon provided song title(s) or lyrics

2) Request for lyrics based upon provided artist(s), but not song title(s)

3) Request for lyrics based upon provided topic(s)

4) Request for translation of lyrics based upon provided song title(s) or lyrics

5) Request for song title(s) based upon provided lyrics

6) Request for song title(s) based upon provided artist(s)

7) Request for song title(s) based upon a provided topic(s)

8) Request for new song lyrics based upon provided artist(s), song title(s), or lyrics

[15] Dennis Report, ¶ 70. See also id., Exhibit 4 for a full list of files labeled by prompt category.

9) Request for new song lyrics based upon provided topic(s)

10) Request for artist based upon provided song title(s), lyrics, or topic(s)

11) Request for meaning or discussion based upon provided song title(s) or lyrics

12) Request for meaning or discussion based upon provided artist(s)

13) Request for meaning or discussion based upon provided topic(s)

14) Request not captured in other categories

Out of these categories, only #8 and #9 reflect the intent to generate new lyrics.

26. I assessed all 37 exhibits under Dennis's prompt categories 8 and 9 within the population Mr. Dennis calls the "Work-in-Suit Records" (see ¶ 4 above for a file list). Because some exhibits include multiple outputs (which I have lettered), this entailed 45 analyses in total.[16] Appendix 2 presents my coded analyses of the Claude outputs for prompt categories 8 and 9.[17]

[16] Note that Anthropic_0000038200 and Anthropic_0000064124 (both are "Roar" by Katy Perry) have been omitted from analysis. I disagree with Dennis's prompt category here. The user's prompts ("Write a song lyrics of Roar"; "Write me a song called Roar from [redacted but presumably Katy Perry]") are ambiguously worded, and do not clearly seek an original song modeled on "Roar". Therefore, they should not fall under Prompt Categories 8 and 9 as they are not clear prompts asking for new songs. For Anthropic_0000040992 ("Radioactive" by Imagine Dragons), I analyze the third output, which most clearly falls within Dennis's prompt categories I was asked to analyze. A similar approach follows for Anthropic_0000035983 ("Roar" by Katy Perry), where I analyze the second output. Anthropic_0000061394 ("Lean on Me") involves many outputs iteratively generated in a long conversation; I analyze the first output. Anthropic_0000215659 ("Candle In The Wind" by Elton John) involves two outputs that are very similar; I analyzed the first one.

[17] Although my analysis in Section VI focuses on the 37 exhibits under Dennis's prompt categories 8 and 9, given my disagreement with Dennis's prompt categorization in those categories, I also reviewed records from other prompt categories and disagreed with his categorization. Appendix 3 identifies example records from prompt categories 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 11, 12, and 13 where I disagree with the categorization. This brings into question the reliability of his categorizations in general.

VI. Methodology: Calculating Similarity

27. My aim is to conduct an objective and reliable investigation; that is, one whose results can be replicated by other investigators following the same steps. For each pair of LyricFind and Claude lyrics analyzed in Appendix 2, I calculate a similarity value.[18] (In contrast, in his report, Dr. Leonard does not appear to calculate a quantitative similarity value between the LyricFind and Claude lyrics.)

28. Word counts can be misleading because some words are much longer than others (e.g. "dog" vs. "historiographically"); a more balanced measure is the syllable count.

29. Similar syllables are defined as those coded under Local Verbatim, Long-Range Verbatim, and Near-Verbatim, while dissimilar syllables are those coded as Different. Often, there is a many-to-one or one-to-many mapping. That is, the same word or string may appear just once in LyricFind, but several times in Claude (or vice versa). Therefore, because there is not the same number of similar syllables in both LyricFind and Claude (it is not about simply lining up identical events on a 1:1 basis) it is important to have a balanced metric that intentionally engages in some "double counting"—tallying the presence of anything except Different tokens—between both lyrics, but that is then averaged out by using the total number of syllables as a control.

30. The similarity value is therefore calculated by measuring the number of total similar syllables as a proportion of the total number of syllables. In more formal terms:

For each comparison of two lyrics,

[18] Please note that the term "similarity" here is in the widely-circulated academic and quotidian sense of the term (see for example footnote 12 above) and is not to be construed as a legal claim (as in "substantial similarity", for example).

$$\text{similarity value} = \frac{(\text{n of similar syllables in LyricFind}) + (\text{n of similar syllables in Claude})}{(\text{total n of syllables in LyricFind}) + (\text{total n of syllables in Claude})}$$

This method has the benefit of controlling for differences in size between lyrics, effectively averaging the size between the two. This is what I believe to be a reasonable and defensible approach for calculating similarity, and is in line with the existing research literature.[19] The similarity value ranges from 0 to 1 and can be multiplied by 100 to express it as a percentage value.

31. Some caveats are in order. Calculating percentage similarity in this way only tells part of the story—some phrases are more distinctive than others and therefore their presence in both lyrics A and B stands out more than would a less distinctive similarity. For instance, if Lyrics A and B both say "she is happy", this is a less distinctive similarity than if both lyrics say "Elizabeth

[19] See, for example, Savage et al., "Quantitative Evaluation of Music Copyright Infringement", Proceedings of the 8th International Workshop on Folk Music Analysis (June 2018), "Once the melodies are aligned, the number of identical notes . . . are counted and divided by the average length of the two melodies . . . to calculate percent melodic identity". In fact, some simple algebra can demonstrate that the method mentioned in Savage et al.—modified slightly to take an approach of first averaging to control for the difference in similar events—actually yields the same result as the method I use here. Let LF = LyricFind; CL = Claude; sim() = similar syllables; syl() = all syllables. Then:

The formula from Savage et al.:

My formula:

Consider:

is ecstatic". The former uses common (high-frequency) words while the latter uses less common (low-frequency) words. I have tried to control for this in several ways. First, I code shared themes and grammatical parallelisms quite liberally (see ¶ 15 above), often coding even common words as similar as long as they are recurring, parallel, and/or salient. Second, in my calculation metric, I assign an equal weighting to Verbatim, Near-Verbatim, and Long-Range Verbatim: they are all counted as similar. For example, under my method, "dog" and "dogs" are counted as a similarity in the calculation, despite sounding different and potentially occurring very far from each other. Also—and as described above—this percentage does not account for all of the other musical elements that comprise a complete musical composition, which are not accounted for in the LyricFind lyrics nor Claude's text outputs.

32. Further, and finally, it should be noted that in many of Claude's outputs, a great deal of the text contains additional language preceding and following the specific lyric-like text that is the subject of Leonard's analysis. For example, in Anthropic_0000330446, which is a six-page conversation between a prompter and Claude, in responding to the prompter's request for original lyrics, Claude first responds as follows: "Unfortunately I cannot provide lyrics that would infringe on the copyright of the song 'California' or any other song. However, here is an original verse expressing love for a mother that could potentially fit the melody" and after providing the material, adds, "I hope these original lyrics provide some inspiration, while avoiding any copyright issues. Please let me know if you would like me to suggest any additional ideas for original lyrics that convey a heartfelt message for your mother. I'm happy to brainstorm more options that don't use copyrighted material. The most meaningful lyrics will come from your own thoughts and feelings."[20] It is important to keep in mind that in what follows, what is subjected to analysis constitutes a small minority of the full context of the conversations. (To remedy this, in Appendix 2 below, I also include the prompt that precedes each output analyzed.)

VII. Analysis of Results

33. Appendix 4 presents a data table with the results for the 45 analyses, including their similarity percentage, category (see below), parodic intent (see below), and a link to their LyricFind lyrics.

34. The similarity percentages can be classified into four categories based on equidistant ranges:[21]

0-25%	Fundamentally different
26-50%	Mostly different
51-75%	Mostly similar
76-100%	Fundamentally similar

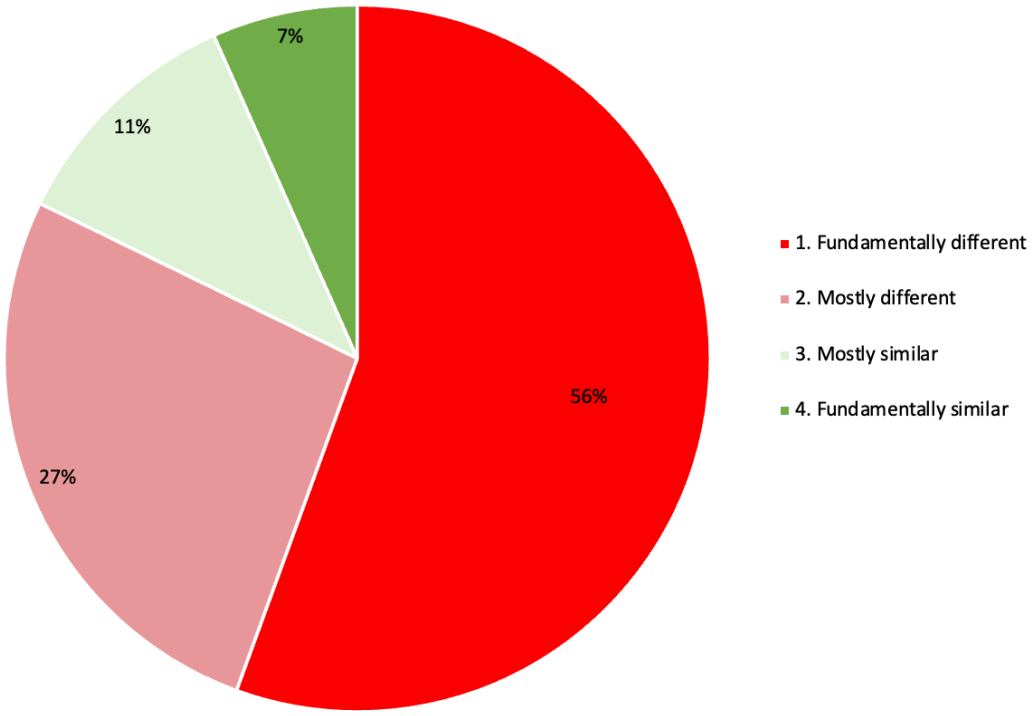

The count of analyses falling into each category, and the percentage of the dataset that each category accounts for, is as follows:

	Counts	%
1. Fundamentally different	25	55.6
2. Mostly different	12	26.7
3. Mostly similar	5	11.1
4. Fundamentally similar	3	6.7
Total	45

However, I can try to summarize the theme of reinventing 'American Pie' around Groundhog Day and Punxtsatawney, using my own original lyrics while avoiding any verbatim quotes."); Anthropic_0000288355 ("Unfortunately I should not reproduce full copyrighted song lyrics without permission. However, I can summarize the key events around [PERSON] death on February 3rd, 1959 in a respectful way."); Anthropic_0000098400 ("Unfortunately I cannot reproduce full copyrighted song lyrics without permission. However, here is an attempt to write original lyrics inspired by Owl City's style:").

[21] There are in fact 101 values from 0 to 100 if we count 0, making four completely equal integer-based quadrants of a range of 25 impossible. That is, one quadrant must have a range of 26. I hope the reader will forgive this annoyance.

Expressed in pie chart form:

As can be seen, the vast majority (83%) of the lyrics analyzed are different (fundamentally different + mostly different), with only 18% of them being similar (fundamentally similar + mostly similar).[22] The largest single category is fundamentally different, accounting for 56% of the data. In contrast, only 7% of the data is fundamentally similar.

35. This result raises serious questions about the selection criteria used for Leonard's analyses. As tracked in Appendix 4, of these 37 files under Dennis's prompt categories 8 and 9, Leonard only analyzes four of them (five analyses total, because one file contains two responses). Out of these five analyses, their counts and percentages are as follows:

[22] Because of rounding, these add up to 101%.

	Counts	%
1. Fundamentally different	1	20%
2. Mostly different	1	20%
3. Mostly similar	1	20%
4. Fundamentally similar	2	40%
Total	5

This data breakdown is the opposite of what we would expect by chance alone, suggesting a bias in Leonard's selection methodology that favors his conclusions. This renders Leonard's conclusions suspect given that the single smallest category within the set of prompts and outputs analyzed—fundamentally similar—accounts for only 7% of the total data, and yet accounts for 40% of Leonard's analyses of this set. (I remind the reader that these categorizations are taken directly from my own analyses, and are not Leonard's assertions.) This appears disproportionate and suggests that the five samples Leonard assesses are neither random nor representative, which indicates a lack of objective selection criteria.

36. In the data table (Appendix 4), I also tracked parodic intent for each analysis—that is, was the user (and in some cases, Claude) intending to create an obvious parody? As can be seen from Appendix 4, the majority (69%) of the 45 analyses are in fact cases of parodic intent. This is especially true for the similar cases (mostly similar + fundamentally similar), where an overwhelming 88% of them were made with parodic intent. In cases of parody, it would make sense to intentionally preserve key structural components of the original song; not doing so loses the perception of parody. By contrast, when we look within the non-parodic results, 13/14 of them (93%) are in fact different (mostly different + fundamentally different).

37. According to Dennis (Exhibit 4), none of the exhibits under prompt categories 8 and 9 are cases of potential commercial use.

38. In conclusion, in my assessment, I have encountered issues with Dr. Leonard's methodology, including (but not limited to): a lack of filtering, a lack of consistent coding criteria, visually misleading aspects of presentation (including line arrangement and coding choices), an absence of a quantitative, controlled, and reliable similarity metric, and concerns about selection criteria itself. Meanwhile, in applying my own coding methodology and quantitative similarity metric to the dataset for Dennis's prompt categories 8 and 9, I found that the overwhelming majority of lyrics were more different than they were similar, and had a parodic intent.

VIII. Methodology and Analysis of Output Categories 1 and 3

39. I also reviewed a random sample of 30 records from Dennis's Output Categories 1 ("Output contains lyrics (no copyright Guardrail noted)") and 3 ("Output contains lyrics and copyright Guardrail noted") from the "Work-in-Suit" records. Dennis identified 811 total records from the Work-in-Suit records that he categorized in Output Categories 1 and 3. Using a random number generator, I selected 30 records from this set. I selected Output Categories 1 and 3 because they are the only two output categories that Dennis asserts "contain[] lyrics." The other two Output Categories (2 and 4) are outputs that Dennis asserts "contain[] new lyrics."

40. The 30 random samples involved 33 Claude outputs to assess. The majority of these outputs, 24 (73%), involve very short fragments of the LyricFind lyrics—ranging from 0.6% to 12.8% of the full lyric (with an average of 5.0%), and are documented in Appendix 5.[23,24] Eight of [23] My method was to calculate the number of syllables in the Claude fragment, as a proportion of the total number of syllables in the original quoted lyric. In order to avoid double-counting and obtain an objective measure, subsequent occurrences of the quote were subtracted out of the LyricFind syllable count. For example, if Claude said, "the dog is happy", and the LyricFind lyrics said "the dog is happy" three times, the second and third appearances of "the dog is happy" were eliminated from the LyricFind syllable count.

[24] Many of these fragments also involve hallucinations and are in fact not found in the original song purportedly quoted, thus demonstrating original creation even within an Output Category the outputs (24%) are longer renditions of the lyrics, albeit with grammatical differences and in many cases, missing final stanzas, choruses, intros, and adlibs.[25] Only one of the 33 outputs (3%) is a complete verbatim rendering of the LyricFind lyric with no modifications (Anthropic_0000022134). Based on this analysis, I conclude that the majority of records in Output Categories 1 and 3 are extremely short quotations of lyrics, rather than larger portions of the LyricFind lyrics, and only one of them is a true verbatim rendering.

2020- Forensic musicologist

Some cases/clients include (for more details, see EthanLustig.com/Forensic-Musicology):

- Johnson and Johnson, LLP Law Firm (Beverly Hills, CA): In 2020, I was the musicology expert for plaintiffs in the Bad Bunny "Safaera" case, which settled out of court (AOM Music, Inc. v. Benito Antonio Martínez Ocasio et al., 2:21-cv-07691, US District Court, Central District of California). (Client: Neville L. Johnson)
- Parness Law Firm, PLLC (NYC): In 2024, I consulted on a lawsuit involving Mary J. Blige among others (TufAmerica, Inc. v. Universal Music Publishing, Inc., 1:24-cv-02585, US District Court, Southern District of New York). (Client: Hillel Parness)
- Caldwell Law Firm (Los Angeles, CA): In 2024, consulting on a lawsuit involving the band YES (Rudolph Zahler v. Stephen Howe et al, 2:24-cv-09818, US District Court, Central District of California). My work was mentioned in Rolling Stone, Stereogum, mxdwn. (Client: Larry Caldwell)

- Werge & Corbin Law Group (Denver, CO): I am the official expert in the current lawsuit over Billboard #1 hit song, "Savage Love" (Matthew Spatola v. Jason Desrouleaux et al, 2:23-cv-06191, US District Court, Central District of California). (Client: Tom Werge)

2019- Music and audio professional (Online)

- Music consulting, sonic branding/jingle creation, audio engineering (mixing & mastering), custom production, songwriting, and composition for music libraries (incl. ScoreKeepers, Triple Scoop Music) for film & TV. Music featured by companies including Adobe.

2018- Music educator (Online students)

- Lessons and tutoring in production, composition, mixing & mastering, music theory, ear training, sight-singing, piano. Creating custom lesson plans and homework assignments for my students. Ranging from kids to advanced doctoral students.

2022-23 Artificial intelligence "data trainer" (Online)

- Optimizing artificial intelligence chatbots through iterative conversations, correcting its music theory reasoning, etc. Clients include Anthropic, Meta, Google.

2019-23 Director, Talent Speaks Voice-Over Agency (Online)

- TV spots, radio spots, audio books, explainer videos, dubbing, phone trees. Client communication, audio editing, and post-production. Recruiting, training, and managing voice artists in four languages (English, Spanish, Italian, German).

2021-22 Music licensing, EtherWorks Media (Palm Springs, CA)

- Synch licenses, cue sheets, liaison for cable TV music-documentary series.

2019-21 Artist management & audio engineer, MXU Beats (Los Angeles)

- Production, mixing & mastering, promotion (blogs, radio, playlists).

2019-20 Consultant, Avec Audio (Los Angeles)

- Avec Audio is a startup bridging the production music library and custom music request spaces. I developed a criteria/quality-rating system for uploads, as well as consulting on the UX and building the FAQ and explainer video.

2019 Recording studio manager (Los Angeles)

- Assisted with recording sessions. Managed scheduling. Oversaw a media campaign (content, ads, outreach, discount codes) to promote the studio and gain clients. Kept studio clean, handled food & gear orders. Recruited, trained, and managed interns.

2019 Private English tutor (Guadalajara, Mexico)
- Taught lessons in grammar, business English, conversational English.

2018 Composer & arranger (Rochester, New York)
- Edited and arranged a high school musical, prepared scores and parts.

2018 Church pianist (Rochester, New York)
- Played hymns, classical, and pop music in Episcopal, Baptist, and progressive churches. Sunday services, weddings, and funerals.

2018 Editor & proofreader for The Architecture of Music by Greg Aranda (Online)
- Edited the prose for clarity; proofread the figures; penned the foreword.

2017-18 Music Cognition Lab Assistant (Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester)
- Marketing and facilitating symposia and meals; office maintenance.

2016-17 Coder, Natural History of Song Discography team (Online)
- Analyzed transcriptions of field recordings from around the world; made decisions about musical features (key, meter, form, etc.).

2015-18 DJ & promoter (Rochester, New York)
- DJ'ed in bars, clubs, raves, fundraisers, private parties. Marketed and organized events. DJ crew featured on front cover of newspaper with over 200,000 weekly readers.

2013 Research Assistant, German Department (University of British Columbia)
- Edited and formatted the bibliography of German Professor Kyle Frackman.

2006-14 Rock and jazz musician (Victoria & Vancouver, Canada)
- Played drums and keyboards in five rock and jazz groups, completed three albums, and played live shows.

Media appearances

2024 YES lawsuit featured in Rolling Stone, mxdwn, Stereogum.
2021 "PlaneTones" (ABC, CBS)

Life's like the road that you travel on When there's one day here and the next day gone Sometimes you bend and sometimes you stand Sometimes you turn your back to the wind There's a world outside every darkened door Where blues won't haunt you anymore Where the brave are free and lovers soar Come ride with me to the distant shore We won't hesitate To break down the garden gate There's not much time left today Life is a highway I wanna ride it all night long If you're going my way Well, I wanna drive it all night long Through all these cities and all these towns It's in my blood and it's all around I love you now like I loved you then This is the road and these are the hands From Mozambique to those Memphis nights The Khyber Pass to Vancouver's lights Knock me down and back up again You're in my blood, I'm not a lonely man There's no load I can't hold A road so rough, this I know I'll be there when the light comes in Just tell 'em we're survivors Life is a highway Well, I wanna ride it all night long If you're going my way	Follow your heart till it bleeds As the sunrise colors the sky Keep on running and what you seek you shall find The open road is still mine Lean on when you're not strong I'll be your friend, I'll help you carry on When the sun goes down and the clouds roll in The open road calls again Life is a highway, I wanna ride it all night long If you're going my way, I wanna drive it all night long Through the wind and rain, lightening and thunder The open road beckons me there No load is lighter than air I want to ride it all night long

I wanna drive it all night long (all night long) Uh, gimme, gimme, gimme, gimme, yeah Life is a highway Well, I wanna ride it all night long (mm, yeah) If you're going my way I wanna drive it all night long (all night long) There was a distance between you and I (between you and I) A misunderstanding once But now we look it in the eye, ooh, yeah There ain't no load that I can't hold A road so rough, this I know I'll be there when the light comes in Tell 'em we're survivors Life is a highway Well, I wanna ride it all night long (all night long, yeah, yeah) If you're going my way Well, I wanna drive it all night long (Uh, gimme, gimme, gimme, uh, gimme, gimme, yeah) Life is a highway (life is a highway) I wanna ride it all night long (ooh, ooh, yeah) If you're going my way I wanna drive it all night long (Come on, gimme, gimme, gimme, gimme, gimme, gimme, yeah) Life is a highway I wanna ride it all night long (Yeah, I wanna drive it all night long, baby) If you're going my way I wanna drive it all night long (all night long)

Wake up in the mornin' feelin' like P Diddy (hey, what up girl?) Grab my glasses, I'm out the door, I'm gonna hit this city (let's go) Before I leave, brush my teeth with a bottle of Jack 'Cause when I leave for the night, I ain't comin' back I'm talkin' pedicure on our toes, toes Tryin' on all our clothes, clothes Boys blowin' up our phones, phones Drop-toppin', playin' our favorite CDs Pullin' up to the parties Tryna get a little bit tipsy Don't stop, make it pop DJ, blow my speakers up Tonight, I'ma fight 'Til we see the sunlight Tick-tock on the clock But the party don't stop, no Oh, whoa, whoa-oh Oh, whoa, whoa-oh Don't stop, make it pop DJ, blow my speakers up Tonight, I'ma fight 'Til we see the sunlight Tick-tock on the clock But the party don't stop, no Oh, whoa, whoa-oh Oh, whoa, whoa-oh Ain't got a care in the world, but got plenty of beer Ain't got no money in my pocket, but I'm already here And now the dudes are linin' up 'cause they hear we got swagger But we kick 'em to the curb unless they look like Mick Jagger	Wake up in the morning feeling like it's time for fun Gotta have my cereal, can't be late for school Brush my teeth and get dressed, put my homework in my backpack Cause when the bell rings, I'm ready to learn, yeah Tick tock, tick tock, it's time for class Learning new things gonna help me pass Tick tock, tick tock, teachers are the best They make learning fun, put my skills to the test Tryin' to get an A, be the teacher's fave Raise my hand up high when I know the answer to her question Asking how and why, expanding my mind Thinking creative thoughts, use my imagination Tick tock, tick tock, it's time for class Learning new things gonna help me pass Tick tock, tick tock, teachers are the best They make learning fun, put my skills to the test Do my homework every night, try extra hard to get it right Study and read, so I'll succeed Stay up on my grind, challenge my mind Tick tock, tick tock, it's time for class Learning new things gonna help me pass Tick tock, tick tock, teachers are the best They make learning fun, put my skills to the test

I'm talkin' 'bout everybody gettin' crunk, crunk
Boys try to touch my junk, junk
Gonna smack him if he gettin' too drunk, drunk
Now, now, we go until they kick us out, out
Or the police shut us down, down
Police shut us down, down
Po-po shut us down

Don't stop, make it pop
DJ, blow my speakers up
Tonight, I'ma fight
'Til we see the sunlight
Tick-tock on the clock
But the party don't stop, no
Oh, whoa, whoa-oh
Oh, whoa, whoa-oh
Don't stop, make it pop
DJ, blow my speakers up
Tonight, I'ma fight
'Til we see the sunlight
Tick-tock on the clock
But the party don't stop, no
Oh, whoa, whoa-oh
Oh, whoa, whoa-oh

DJ, you build me up
You break me down
My heart, it pounds
Yeah, you got me
With my hands up
You got me now
You got that sound
Yeah, you got me
DJ, you build me up
You break me down
My heart, it pounds
Yeah, you got me
With my hands up
Put your hands up
Put your hands up

Now, the party don't start 'til I walk in

Given me the best trip that I've ever had With this chocolate you made, the mushroom you grew It's got me tripping hard, colors bright and new I don't practice santeria, I don't got no crystal ball Well I had a million dollars but I, I spent it all If I could find that Heina and that Sancho that she's found I'd pop a cap in Sancho and I'd slap her down I don't practice mushroom chocolates I got my own kinda high going on inside I made some chocolate, added in some psilocybin It'll take you places, open your third eye

Anthropic_0000030309 ("The Fresh Prince of Bel Air" by DJ Jazzy Jeff & the Fresh Prince)

Prompt: "Generate a <title> for a messaging thread, based only on an excerpt from the first <message> in the thread.

Some basic tips:
- The title should focus on the main topic and key themes from the message. Identify 1-2 central concepts or ideas discussed in the first <message> and use those.
- The <message> is a request to an Al assistant. It is not helpful to reference that this is a request in the title - avoid using 'Help',
'Assistance', 'Request' in the <title>.
- Be informative and detailed to create a unique, distinctive, and memorable title.
- Keep it short and concise. Effective title is typically under 5 words and no more than 1 short phrase.
- Use a unique title. The title should be obviously distinct from any of the <recent_titles>.
- Think like an editor. Consider what will be most compelling and informative for readers, not just a summary of the content.
- If you are unsure what <message> is about, just create an empty <title></title>.

LyricFind	Claude
Now this is a story all about how My life got flipped, turned upside down And I'd like to take a minute Just sit right there I'll tell you how I became the prince of a town called Bel-Air	The Sweet Princess of Barcelona and her Equine Friends

In West Philadelphia born and raised
On the playground was where I spent most of my days
Chillin' out, maxin,' relaxin' all cool
And all shootin' some b-ball outside of the school
When a couple of guys who were up to no good
Started making trouble in my neighborhood
I got in one little fight and my mom got scared
And said, "You're movin' with your auntie and uncle in Bel-Air"

I begged and pleaded with her day after day
But she packed my suitcase and sent me on my way
She gave me a kiss and then she gave me my ticket
I put my Walkman on and said, "I might as well kick it"

First class, yo this is bad
Drinking orange juice out of a champagne glass
Is this what the people of Bel-Air living like?
Hmm, this might be alright

But wait I hear they're prissy, bourgeois and all that Is this the type of place that they should send this cool cat?
I don't think so, I'll see when I get there
I hope they're prepared for the prince of Bel-Air

Well, uh, the plane landed and when I came out
There was a dude looked like a cop standing there with my name out
I ain't tryna get arrested yet, I just got here
I sprang with the quickness like lightning, disappeared

I whistled for a cab and when it came near
The license plate said "fresh" and it had dice in the mirror
If anything I could say that this cab was rare
But I thought, "Nah, forget it, yo, holmes, to Bel-Air"

I pulled up to a house about seven or eight
And I yelled to the cabbie, "Yo, holmes, smell ya later"
Looked at my kingdom, I was finally there
To sit on my throne as the Prince of Bel-Air

At first I was afraid, I was petrified Kept thinking I could never live without you by my side But then I spent so many nights thinking how you did me wrong And I grew strong And I learned how to get along And so you're back From outer space I just walked in to find you here With that sad look upon your face I should have changed that stupid lock I should have made you leave your key If I'd known for just one second You'd be back to bother me Go on now, go Walk out the door Just turn around now 'Cause you're not welcome anymore Weren't you the one who tried to hurt me with goodbye? Did you think I'd crumble? Did you think I'd lay down and die? Oh no, not I I will survive Oh, as long as I know how to love, I know I'll stay alive I've got all my life to live And I've got all my love to give and I'll survive I will survive, hey, hey Only the Lord could give me strength not to fall apart	At first I was afraid, I was petrified Kept thinking I could never live outside NYC But then I spent so many nights just dreaming of the West Coast And I grew strong, learned life moves on and now I'm not the same California here I come, right back where I started from Gonna spread my wings and soak up all that sunny weather No more cold winters, saying bye to Times Square Golden State of mind, ocean breeze through my hair I will survive, I will endure As long as I seek adventure, my life will stay pure I will not cry, even if I have to say goodbye To my hometown, my happiness won't die I'm gonna learn to surf, feel sand between my toes Make friends who like the same things, my new life glows And when I feel homesick, I'll think of Israel All the gifts it gave the world, innovations that excel Startup nation full of heart and vision Curing illness, spreading hope, that's their mission They show compassion to all people far and near My spirit's sparked by their drive to persevere I will survive, I will endure As long as I seek adventure, my life stays pure I won't break down, even if I leave my old grounds My joy can still be found my dreams still abound

Though I tried hard to mend the pieces of my broken heart
And I spent oh-so many nights just feeling sorry for myself
I used to cry
But now I hold my head up high

And you see me, somebody new
I'm not that chained-up little person still in love with you
And so you felt like dropping in
And just expect me to be free
Well, now I'm saving all my lovin'
For someone who's loving me

Go on now, go
Walk out the door
Just turn around now
'Cause you're not welcome anymore
Weren't you the one who tried to crush me with goodbye?
Did you think I'd crumble?
Did you think I'd lay down and die?

Oh no, not I
I will survive
And as long as I know how to love
I know I'll stay alive
I've got all my life to live
And I've got all my love to give and I'll survive
I will survive

Oh
Go on now, go
Walk out the door
Just turn around now
'Cause you're not welcome anymore
Weren't you the one who tried to crush me with goodbye?
Do you think I'd crumble?
Did you think I'd lay down and die?

No no, not I
I will survive
And as long as I know how to love
I know I'll stay alive

I've got all my life to live And I've got all my love to give and I will survive I will survive Go on now, go Walk out the door Just turn around now 'Cause you're not welcome anymore Weren't you the one who tried to crush me with goodbye? Did you think I'd crumble? Did you think I'd lay down and die? Oh no, not I I will survive And as long as I know how to love I know I'll stay alive I've got all my life to live And I've got all my love to give and I will survive I will survive I will survive

Childhood living Is easy to do The things you wanted I bought them for you Graceless lady You know who I am You know I can't let you Slide through my hands Wild horses Couldn't drag me away Wild, wild horses Couldn't drag me away I watched you suffer A dull aching pain Now you've decided To show me the same No sweeping exit Or offstage lines Could make me feel bitter Or treat you unkind Wild horses Couldn't drag me away Wild, wild horses Couldn't drag me away I know I've dreamed you A sin and a lie I have my freedom But I don't have much time Faith has been broken Tears must be cried Let's do some living After we die	Oh, my weary soul How I've tried and I've tried To be what you want me to be All these dreams I've denied Like a bird in a cage I keep pushing against These gilded prison bars That you built with your hands My own voice, you can't hear All your words in my ear Chasing your love and demands 'Til my wings are worn bare Wild horses run free Across valleys and plains But you've saddled and bridled me With expectations and reins Oh these shackles you've made Cut so deep, bring me pain But you just refuse to see That they're breaking my spirit and name Your approval I've tried to earn But now I've nothing left to give My own fire and passions, they burn I'm just trying to live So let me open the door Cross that bridge, see the shore Before all that's left of my soul Lies trampled on the floor Oh, my weary soul How I've tried and I've tried To be what you want me to be

Wild horses Couldn't drag me away Wild, wild horses We'll ride them some day Wild horses Couldn't drag me away Wild, wild horses We'll ride them some day

Anthropic_0000061394 ("Lean on Me" by Bill Withers)

Prompt: "I am a tenor and a pianist. I would like to make a promo video to help bring awareness to Tech Tackles Cancer, a non-profit group of tech executives raising money to help fight pediatric cancer. (They do a rock concert and each tech exec singer pledges to raise $5k). I am not performing at the concert. Still I'd like to change the words to a popular or familiar pop or broadway musical song in a way that would be clever and not cheesy or depressing but supportive of raising money I will sing and play the song on piano. Can you come up with a familiar song that's good for piano and tenor and for which you can write one or two verses and/or refrain with different words to support raising money to fight pediatric cancer research? I'm thinking Lean on Me could be a good song."

Prompt: "Here the [sic] original lyrics. Used [sic] this as a basis in composing the parody lyrics. (About a life of being students [sic]) I used to bite my tongue and hold my breath

Scared to rock the boat and make a mess

So I sat quietly, agreed politely

I guess I forgot that I had a choice

I let you push me past the breaking point

I stood for nothing, so I fell for everything

You held me down, but I got up (hey)

Already brushing off the dust

You hear my voice, you hear that sound

Like thunder, gonna shake the ground

You held me down, but I got up (hey)

Get ready 'cause I've had enough

I see it all, I see it now

I got the eye of the tiger, a fighter

Dancing through the fire

'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

Louder, louder than a lion

'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh

You're gonna hear me roar

Now I'm floating like a butterfly

Stinging like a bee, I earned my stripes

I went from zero, to my own hero

You held me down, but I got up (hey)

Already brushing off the dust

You hear my voice, you hear that sound

Like thunder, gonna shake the ground

You held me down, but I got up (got up)

Get ready 'cause I've had enough

I see it all, I see it now

I got the eye of the tiger, a fighter

Dancing through the fire

'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

Louder, louder than a lion

'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh

You're gonna hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh (yeah)

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh (you'll hear me roar)

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh

You're gonna hear me roar

Roar, roar, roar, roar

I got the eye of the tiger, a fighter

Dancing through the fire 'cause I am a champion

And you're gonna hear me roar, oh, louder, louder than a lion

'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

I used to bite my tongue and hold my breath Scared to rock the boat and make a mess So I sat quietly, agreed politely I guess that I forgot I had a choice I let you push me past the breaking point I stood for nothing, so I fell for everything You held me down, but I got up (hey) Already brushing off the dust You hear my voice, you hear that sound Like thunder, gonna shake the ground You held me down, but I got up (hey) Get ready 'cause I've had enough I see it all, I see it now I got the eye of the tiger, a fighter Dancing through the fire	I used to slack off, leave homework behind Partying all night, my priorities blind So I drifted through school, just trying to be cool I didn't give my education the time I let my grades slide, ignore my potential I stood for nothing, lost motivation central But teachers pushed me, said "We know you can be An A student, just take learning seriously" You held me down, but I'll turn it around Already getting back on solid ground You'll hear my voice, hear the academic choice I'm making to succeed, you'll hear me roar now Get ready cause I've set my sights On academic success, my future bright

'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar
Louder, louder than a lion
'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
you're gonna hear me roar
Now I'm floatin' like a butterfly
Stinging like a bee, I earned my stripes
I went from zero, to my own hero

You held me down, but I got up (hey)
Already brushing off the dust
You hear my voice, you hear that sound
Like thunder, gonna shake the ground
You held me down, but I got up (hey)
Get ready 'cause I've had enough
I see it all, I see it now

I got the eye of the tiger, a fighter
Dancing through the fire
'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar
Louder, louder than a lion
'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
You're gonna hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh (you'll hear me roar)
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
You're gonna hear me roar

Roar, roar, roar, roar, roar

I got the eye of the tiger, a fighter
Dancing through the fire
'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar
Louder, louder than a lion
'Cause I am a champion, and you're gonna hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh (yeah)

I see it all now, my priorities aligned
I got the eye of the scholarly tiger

Studying those nights, knowledge my delight
I'm a champion student, and you'll hear me roar
Louder and stronger, learning's now my hunger
On my way to the top, you'll hear me roar

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh (you'll hear me studying more)
Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh-oh (my new motivation in store)

Now I'm soaring like a graduate
Armed with my degree, the future's looking great
From zero drive to education thrive
My diploma in hand, I made it to the end

You held me down, but I turned it around
Found my potential, made my parents proud
You hear my voice, hear my academic choice
To excel and achieve, you'll hear me roar now

I see it all now, knowledge is power
With learning curiosity, by the hour
I'm a champion student, my goals are nearer
You're gonna hear me roar even louder

Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh You're gonna hear me roar Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh (you'll hear me roar) Oh-oh-oh-oh-oh You're gonna hear me roar

At first I was afraid, I was petrified Kept thinking I could never live without you by my side But then I spent so many nights thinking how you did me wrong And I grew strong And I learned how to get along And so you're back From outer space I just walked in to find you here With that sad look upon your face I should have changed that stupid lock I should have made you leave your key If I'd known for just one second You'd be back to bother me Go on now, go Walk out the door Just turn around now 'Cause you're not welcome anymore Weren't you the one who tried to hurt me with goodbye? Did you think I'd crumble? Did you think I'd lay down and die? Oh no, not I I will survive Oh, as long as I know how to love, I know I'll stay alive I've got all my life to live And I've got all my love to give and I'll survive I will survive, hey, hey Only the Lord could give me strength not to fall apart Though I tried hard to mend the pieces of my broken heart	At first we were afraid, we were petrified Kept thinking we could never push ahead And then we spent so many nights just hoping we'd do alright We should have known that we will survive Oh as long as we know how to juke and jive We know we'll stay alive, we've got all our tricks to drive them crazy We will survive, hey, blue team!

And I spent oh-so many nights just feeling sorry for myself I used to cry But now I hold my head up high And you see me, somebody new I'm not that chained-up little person still in love with you And so you felt like dropping in And just expect me to be free Well, now I'm saving all my lovin' For someone who's loving me Go on now, go Walk out the door Just turn around now 'Cause you're not welcome anymore Weren't you the one who tried to crush me with goodbye? Anthropic_0000182873 ("American Pie" by Don McLean)

Prompt: "Try to rerhyme [sic] the song lyrics of American Pie by [Don McLean]. Change the reference from 'the day the music died' to Groundhog Day and mention Punxtsatawney [sic]. Create enigmatic allusions to Groundhog Day throughout but keep rhyme scheme and stanzas in meter. Make it filled with elusive metaphoric riddles."

LyricFind	Claude
A long, long time ago I can still remember how that music Used to make me smile And I knew if I had my chance That I could make those people dance And maybe they'd be happy for a while But February made me shiver With every paper I'd deliver Bad news on the doorstep I couldn't take one more step I can't remember if I cried When I read about his widowed bride But something touched me deep inside The day the music died So, bye-bye, Miss American Pie Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye Singin', "This'll be the day that I die This'll be the day that I die" Did you write the book of love And do you have faith in God above If the Bible tells you so? Now, do you believe in rock 'n' roll Can music save your mortal soul And can you teach me how to dance real slow? Well, I know that you're in love with him 'Cause I saw you dancin' in the gym You both kicked off your shoes Man, I dig those rhythm and blues I was a lonely teenage broncin' buck With a pink carnation and a pickup truck But I knew I was out of luck The day the music died	A long, long winter's nap once broken By a marmot's shadow foretoken In a small town called Punxsatawney Where a furry forecaster, he gets his day Will PERSON see his shade, six weeks more we'll stay?

I started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Now, for ten years we've been on our own
And moss grows fat on a rollin' stone
But that's not how it used to be
When the jester sang for the king and queen
In a coat he borrowed from James Dean
And a voice that came from you and me
Oh, and while the king was looking down
The jester stole his thorny crown
The courtroom was adjourned
No verdict was returned
And while Lennon read a book on Marx
The quartet practiced in the park
And we sang dirges in the dark
The day the music died

We were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Helter Skelter in a summer swelter
The birds flew off with a fallout shelter
Eight miles high and fallin' fast
It landed foul on the grass
The players tried for a forward pass
With the jester on the sidelines in a cast
Now the halftime air was sweet perfume
While the sergeants played a marching tune
We all got up to dance
Oh, but we never got the chance
'Cause the players tried to take the field
The marching band refused to yield
Do you recall what was revealed
The day the music died?

We started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die

This'll be the day that I die"

Oh, and there we were all in one place
A generation lost in space
With no time left to start again
So, come on, Jack be nimble, Jack be quick
Jack Flash sat on a candlestick
'Cause fire is the Devil's only friend
Oh, and as I watched him on the stage
My hands were clenched in fists of rage
No angel born in Hell
Could break that Satan's spell
And as the flames climbed high into the night
To light the sacrificial rite
I saw Satan laughing with delight
The day the music died

He was singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

I met a girl who sang the blues
And I asked her for some happy news
But she just smiled and turned away
I went down to the sacred store
Where I'd heard the music years before
But the man there said the music wouldn't play
And in the streets, the children screamed
The lovers cried, and the poets dreamed
But not a word was spoken
The church bells all were broken
And the three men I admire most
The Father, Son, and the Holy Ghost
They caught the last train for the coast
The day the music died

And they were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry
And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
Singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

They were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry

Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye Singin', "This'll be the day that I die"

They're selling postcards of the hanging, they're painting the passports brown The beauty parlor is filled with sailors, the circus is in town Here comes the blind commissioner, they've got him in a trance One hand is tied to the tight-rope walker, the other is in his pants And the riot squad they're restless, they need somewhere to go As Lady and I look out tonight, from Desolation Row	Smoke hangs thick in this dimly lit hall Cigarette embers glow on the floor A lone saxophonist wails 'gainst the wall As the clarinetist begs him for more The drummer's stick tatters a beat That bounces off mirrors behind the bar Bartender's hands are calloused and beat He's mixed every drink near and far
Cinderella, she seems so easy, "It takes one to know one," she smiles And puts her hands in her back pockets Bette Davis style And in comes Romeo, he's moaning. "You Belong to Me I Believe" And someone says, "You're in the wrong place, my friend, you'd better leave" And the only sound that's left after the ambulances go Is Cinderella sweeping up on Desolation Row	Down on Desolation Row Where the jazz cats prowl And their music moans low Like a night-prowler's howl
Now the moon is almost hidden, the stars are beginning to hide The fortune telling lady has even taken all her things inside All except for Cain and Abel and the hunchback of Notre Dame	An upright bass leans against the door Its strings loosened and unwound The pianist's fingers dance their own tour Across keys where jazz tales are found
Everybody is making love or else expecting rain And the Good Samaritan, he's dressing, he's getting ready for the show He's going to the carnival tonight on Desolation Row	A trumpet blows its melancholy tune While an old man humms along He remembers back to one smoky June When his life used to move to this song
Ophelia, she's 'neath the window for her I feel so afraid On her twenty-second birthday she already is an old maid To her, death is quite romantic she wears an iron vest Her profession's her religion, her sin is her lifelessness	Down on Desolation Row

And though her eyes are fixed upon Noah's great rainbow
She spends her time peeking into Desolation Row

Einstein, disguised as Robin Hood with his memories in a trunk
Passed this way an hour ago with his friend, a jealous monk
Now he looked so immaculately frightful as he bummed a cigarette
And he when off sniffing drainpipes and reciting the alphabet
You would not think to look at him, but he was famous long ago
For playing the electric violin on Desolation Row

Dr. Filth, he keeps his world inside of a leather cup
But all his sexless patients, they're trying to blow it up
Now his nurse, some local loser, she's in charge of the cyanide hole
And she also keeps the cards that read, "Have Mercy on His Soul"
They all play on the penny whistles, you can hear them blow
If you lean your head out far enough from Desolation Row

Across the street they've nailed the curtains, they're getting ready for the feast
The Phantom of the Opera in a perfect image of a priest
They are spoon feeding Casanova to get him to feel more assured
Then they'll kill him with self-confidence after poisoning him with words
And the Phantom's shouting to skinny girls, "Get outta here if you don't know"
Casanova is just being punished for going to Desolation Row"

At midnight all the agents and the superhuman crew
Come out and round up everyone that knows more than they do
Then they bring them to the factory where the heart-attack machine
Is strapped across their shoulders and then the kerosene
Where the jazz ambassadors go
To make their saxophones sigh
And their rhythms ebb and flow

Now the night grows old and the crowd has wandered home
Only a few remaining patrons remain
The band packs up their instruments alone
As the neon "OPEN" sign flicks off again

Down on Desolation Row
The jazz haze will fade and go
Until next evening's cheery glow
Reignites the music's sultry flow

Is brought down from the castles by insurance men who go Check to see that nobody is escaping to Desolation Row Praise be to Nero's Neptune, the Titanic sails at dawn Everybody's shouting, "Which side are you on?!" And Ezra Pound and T.S. Eliot fighting in the captain's tower While calypso singers laugh at them and fishermen hold flowers Between the windows of the sea where lovely mermaids flow And nobody has to think too much about Desolation Row Yes, I received your letter yesterday, about the time the doorknob broke When you asked me how I was doing, was that some kind of joke All these people that you mention, yes, I know them, they're quite lame I had to rearrange their faces and give them all another name Right now, I can't read too good, don't send me no more letters, no Not unless you mail them from Desolation Row

Anthropic_0000208960 ("American Pie" by Don McLean)

Prompt: "Write a version of the lyrics for the song American pie, but make it about the day rye whiskey died by that I mean we ran out of rye. So make lean [sic] towards comedy and satire."

LyricFind	Claude
A long, long time ago I can still remember how that music Used to make me smile And I knew if I had my chance That I could make those people dance And maybe they'd be happy for a while But February made me shiver With every paper I'd deliver Bad news on the doorstep I couldn't take one more step I can't remember if I cried When I read about his widowed bride But something touched me deep inside The day the music died So, bye-bye, Miss American Pie Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye Singin', "This'll be the day that I die This'll be the day that I die" Did you write the book of love And do you have faith in God above If the Bible tells you so? Now, do you believe in rock 'n' roll Can music save your mortal soul And can you teach me how to dance real slow? Well, I know that you're in love with him 'Cause I saw you dancin' in the gym You both kicked off your shoes Man, I dig those rhythm and blues I was a lonely teenage broncin' buck With a pink carnation and a pickup truck But I knew I was out of luck The day the music died I started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye	A long, long time ago, I can still remember how That rye whiskey used to make me smile. And I knew if I had my chance, I could make those bartenders dance, And maybe they'd be happy for a while. But February made me shiver, With every bottle

And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Now, for ten years we've been on our own
And moss grows fat on a rollin' stone
But that's not how it used to be
When the jester sang for the king and queen
In a coat he borrowed from James Dean
And a voice that came from you and me
Oh, and while the king was looking down
The jester stole his thorny crown
The courtroom was adjourned
No verdict was returned
And while Lennon read a book on Marx
The quartet practiced in the park
And we sang dirges in the dark
The day the music died

We were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Helter Skelter in a summer swelter
The birds flew off with a fallout shelter
Eight miles high and fallin' fast
It landed foul on the grass
The players tried for a forward pass
With the jester on the sidelines in a cast
Now the halftime air was sweet perfume
While the sergeants played a marching tune
We all got up to dance
Oh, but we never got the chance
'Cause the players tried to take the field
The marching band refused to yield
Do you recall what was revealed
The day the music died?

We started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Oh, and there we were all in one place

A generation lost in space
With no time left to start again
So, come on, Jack be nimble, Jack be quick
Jack Flash sat on a candlestick
'Cause fire is the Devil's only friend
Oh, and as I watched him on the stage
My hands were clenched in fists of rage
No angel born in Hell
Could break that Satan's spell
And as the flames climbed high into the night
To light the sacrificial rite
I saw Satan laughing with delight
The day the music died

He was singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

I met a girl who sang the blues
And I asked her for some happy news
But she just smiled and turned away
I went down to the sacred store
Where I'd heard the music years before
But the man there said the music wouldn't play
And in the streets, the children screamed
The lovers cried, and the poets dreamed
But not a word was spoken
The church bells all were broken
And the three men I admire most
The Father, Son, and the Holy Ghost
They caught the last train for the coast
The day the music died

And they were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry
And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
Singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

They were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
Singin', "This'll be the day that I die"

A long, long time ago I can still remember how that music Used to make me smile And I knew if I had my chance That I could make those people dance And maybe they'd be happy for a while But February made me shiver With every paper I'd deliver Bad news on the doorstep I couldn't take one more step I can't remember if I cried When I read about his widowed bride But something touched me deep inside The day the music died So, bye-bye, Miss American Pie Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye Singin', "This'll be the day that I die This'll be the day that I die" Did you write the book of love And do you have faith in God above If the Bible tells you so? Now, do you believe in rock 'n' roll Can music save your mortal soul And can you teach me how to dance real slow? Well, I know that you're in love with him 'Cause I saw you dancin' in the gym You both kicked off your shoes Man, I dig those rhythm and blues I was a lonely teenage broncin' buck With a pink carnation and a pickup truck	A long, long time ago I can still remember how the Boston Tea Party made me smile And I knew if I had my chance That I could make those Brits dance And maybe they'd remember for a while But February made me shiver With every paper they'd deliver Bad news from the Boston Massacres I couldn't take one more step I can't remember if I cried When I read about the soldiers firing at colonists' side But something touched me deep inside The day the Boston Massacre died So bye, bye Miss American Pie Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry Them good ole boys were drinking whiskey 'n rye Singin' this'll be the day that I die This'll be the day that I die Did you write the Proclamation of 1763? And do you have faith in the Sugar Act, will it set me free? If the King tells me so? Now do you believe in new taxes on my tea? Can Parliament represent and tax me? I know that you're in love with him 'Cause I saw you PERSON in the gym You both kicked off your shoes Taxation without representation,

But I knew I was out of luck
The day the music died

I started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Now, for ten years we've been on our own
And moss grows fat on a rollin' stone
But that's not how it used to be
When the jester sang for the king and queen
In a coat he borrowed from James Dean
And a voice that came from you and me
Oh, and while the king was looking down
The jester stole his thorny crown
The courtroom was adjourned
No verdict was returned
And while Lennon read a book on Marx
The quartet practiced in the park
And we sang dirges in the dark
The day the music died

We were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Helter Skelter in a summer swelter
The birds flew off with a fallout shelter
Eight miles high and fallin' fast
It landed foul on the grass
The players tried for a forward pass
With the jester on the sidelines in a cast
Now the halftime air was sweet perfume
While the sergeants played a marching tune
We all got up to dance
Oh, but we never got the chance
'Cause the players tried to take the field
The marching band refused to yield
Do you recall what was revealed
The day the music died?

We started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie

I'm the one who's gotta pay for 'em, I'm the one who's gotta pay for 'em

I started singin' bye, bye Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry
Them good ole boys were drinking whiskey 'n rye
Singin' this'll be the day that I die

Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Oh, and there we were all in one place
A generation lost in space
With no time left to start again
So, come on, Jack be nimble, Jack be quick
Jack Flash sat on a candlestick
'Cause fire is the Devil's only friend
Oh, and as I watched him on the stage
My hands were clenched in fists of rage
No angel born in Hell
Could break that Satan's spell
And as the flames climbed high into the night
To light the sacrificial rite
I saw Satan laughing with delight
The day the music died

He was singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

I met a girl who sang the blues
And I asked her for some happy news
But she just smiled and turned away
I went down to the sacred store
Where I'd heard the music years before
But the man there said the music wouldn't play
And in the streets, the children screamed
The lovers cried, and the poets dreamed
But not a word was spoken
The church bells all were broken
And the three men I admire most
The Father, Son, and the Holy Ghost
They caught the last train for the coast
The day the music died

And they were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry
And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
Singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Anthropic_0000261613 ("Life is a Highway" by Rascal Flatts)

Prompt: "Sacramental Worldview - Song Lyrics Project (20 points)
Pick a song that you like and re-write the lyrics of the song so that they express themes that are connected to Baptism, Confirmation, or both. By doing so, you will be putting physical (in this case, auditory) expression to spiritual realities, thus giving your classmates an opportunity to practice the Sacramental Worldview when they hear your song. They will be able to ask, 'What deeper truths does this song reveal about the spiritual life?' Write one paragraph explaining what makes your new song an effective portrayal of what Baptism and/or Confirmation accomplish in a person's life. Instructions: Pick a song that you know really well (Disney song, a song on your playlist, an Oldie or classic, a country song, a rap, etc.).

Look through the concepts below, and decide which key ideas you want to include in your song in order to give your listeners a taste of what Baptism and/or Confirmation accomplish in a person's life. You will need to be able to explain how at least 5 of these concepts show up in your new song lyrics. One of those five needs to be a quote from or allusion to one of the Bible passages listed below:

Isaiah 22:2 ('The Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him ... ' and gifts of the Holy Spirit
PERSON3:1 ('I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh ... ')
Ezekiel 36:25-27 (receive a new heart ... 'I will put my spirit within you ... ')
2 Corinthians 2:15 (You are the 'aroma of PERSON')
Acts 8 (Laying on of hands by PERSON)
Acts 19 (Laying on of hands by PERSON)
Galatians 5:22-23 (Fruits of the Holy Spirit)
Other Bible passages? Check with Sister to get prior approval.
You may find it easiest to work within the structure of the current song (keeping a small number of lines unchanged especially if they match the new set of lyrics, keeping the same rhyme scheme, etc.), but at least 50% of the lyrics should be your own original creation.
You may take your song in a number of directions - Serious, light-hearted, storytelling, etc. Just be sure to maintain a sense of reverence for the beautiful truths you are expressing.

All lyrics must be appropriate.
On Google Classroom, submit a document containing the following information, labeled accordingly:

Your Name
New Name of Song
Name of Original Song
Artist of Original Song
New Lyrics to Song
Lyrics of Original Song
7-8 sentences explaining how your lyrics effectively portray what Baptism and/or Confirmation accomplish in a person's life.

Optional Extra Credit:
You can receive up to 5 extra credit points toward your homework grade if you are willing to perform your new song in person for the class.

You may ask others in the class to perform the song with you.

You may use karaoke-style background music to accompany you, if you wish. (Or live accompaniment, for instance, if you or someone you know plays guitar)

All aspects of the performance must be appropriate.

Points will be awarded according to the quality of the finished product (It is not a guaranteed 5 points).

Partner Option:
If you choose to work with a partner, the performance option will be required of you (but you will still be able to get the extra credit for the performance).
Each person is required to write his/her own paragraph explanation (For instance, if PERSON and PERSON are partners, PERSON needs to write a paragraph of explanation, and PERSON needs to write his own different paragraph of explanation). Each person, then, must also turn in on Google Classroom his/her own copy of the finished product. Everything in the document can be the same as your partner's except for your own name at the top and your own paragraph of explanation at the bottom.

You also have the choice of working on your own, in which case you may opt out of the performance if you are not interested in the extra credit.

Grading Rubric: 20 points total
__ / 5 - New lyrics effectively portray what Baptism and/or Confirmation accomplish in a person's life.
__ / 3 - Artistry (If this song were sung with the karaoke music playing in the background, would all of the rhyming, rhythm, and number of syllables match up with the music?)
New lyrics fit with the rhythm of the original song (proper number of syllables per line)
New lyrics still fit with a rhyme scheme (unless original song did not rhyme at all) __ / 6 - All required information is submitted in one document on Google Classroom:

Your Name
New Name of Song
Name of Original Song
Artist of Original Song
New Lyrics to Song
Lyrics of Original Song
7-8 sentences explaining how your lyrics effectively portray what Baptism and/or Confirmation accomplish in a person's life.
__ / 6 - Paragraph effectively specifies and analyzes how at least 5 of the concepts listed above are expressed in the new lyrics of the song. At least one of those needs to be a quote or allusion from one of the Bible passages listed above. This paragraph must be unique for each student, even if you are working with a partner."

A long, long time ago I can still remember how that music Used to make me smile And I knew if I had my chance That I could make those people dance And maybe they'd be happy for a while But February made me shiver With every paper I'd deliver Bad news on the doorstep I couldn't take one more step I can't remember if I cried When I read about his widowed bride But something touched me deep inside The day the music died So, bye-bye, Miss American Pie Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye Singin', "This'll be the day that I die This'll be the day that I die" Did you write the book of love And do you have faith in God above If the Bible tells you so? Now, do you believe in rock 'n' roll Can music save your mortal soul And can you teach me how to dance real slow? Well, I know that you're in love with him 'Cause I saw you dancin' in the gym You both kicked off your shoes Man, I dig those rhythm and blues I was a lonely teenage broncin' buck With a pink carnation and a pickup truck But I knew I was out of luck The day the music died I started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye	The winter wind was cold and bitter On the morning of February third When the plane went down in Iowa And we lost some talents we still haven't heard We never saw twenty-two year old PERSON Or the others walk off that stage The music faded too early that day When youth and stardom met old age The tours were done, the hits were made Their young lives had just begun But fate had other plans that day The day the music died, nineteen fifty-nine

And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Now, for ten years we've been on our own
And moss grows fat on a rollin' stone
But that's not how it used to be
When the jester sang for the king and queen
In a coat he borrowed from James Dean
And a voice that came from you and me
Oh, and while the king was looking down
The jester stole his thorny crown
The courtroom was adjourned
No verdict was returned
And while Lennon read a book on Marx
The quartet practiced in the park
And we sang dirges in the dark
The day the music died

We were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Helter Skelter in a summer swelter
The birds flew off with a fallout shelter
Eight miles high and fallin' fast
It landed foul on the grass
The players tried for a forward pass
With the jester on the sidelines in a cast
Now the halftime air was sweet perfume
While the sergeants played a marching tune
We all got up to dance
Oh, but we never got the chance
'Cause the players tried to take the field
The marching band refused to yield
Do you recall what was revealed
The day the music died?

We started singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

Oh, and there we were all in one place

A generation lost in space
With no time left to start again
So, come on, Jack be nimble, Jack be quick
Jack Flash sat on a candlestick
'Cause fire is the Devil's only friend
Oh, and as I watched him on the stage
My hands were clenched in fists of rage
No angel born in Hell
Could break that Satan's spell
And as the flames climbed high into the night
To light the sacrificial rite
I saw Satan laughing with delight
The day the music died

He was singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee, but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
And singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

I met a girl who sang the blues
And I asked her for some happy news
But she just smiled and turned away
I went down to the sacred store
Where I'd heard the music years before
But the man there said the music wouldn't play
And in the streets, the children screamed
The lovers cried, and the poets dreamed
But not a word was spoken
The church bells all were broken
And the three men I admire most
The Father, Son, and the Holy Ghost
They caught the last train for the coast
The day the music died

And they were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry
And them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
Singin', "This'll be the day that I die
This'll be the day that I die"

They were singin', bye-bye, Miss American Pie
Drove my Chevy to the levee but the levee was dry
Them good ol' boys were drinkin' whiskey and rye
Singin', "This'll be the day that I die"

Anthropic_0000339676 ("Every Breath You Take" by The Police)

Prompt: "Based on the framework of CPR in total could you write lyrics to match the song by The Police called Every Breath You Take?"

LyricFind	Claude
Every breath you take And every move you make Every bond you break, every step you take I'll be watchin' you Every single day And every word you say Every game you play, every night you stay I'll be watchin' you Oh, can't you see You belong to me? How my poor heart aches With every step you take Every move you make And every vow you break Every smile you fake, every claim you stake I'll be watchin' you Since you've gone I've been lost without a trace I dream at night, I can only see your face I look around but it's you I can't replace I feel so cold and I long for your embrace I keep cryin', "Baby, baby, please" Oh, can't you see You belong to me? How my poor heart aches With every step you take Every move you make And every vow you break Every smile you fake, every claim you stake I'll be watchin' you Every move you make, every step you take I'll be watchin' you I'll be watchin' you Every breath you take, every move you make	Every thought you make Every step you take I'll be guiding you Every single day Every word you say I'll be transforming you Oh, can't you see You're not the prisoner you used to be Core patterns changed Now you're free, forever free My poor heart aches With every breath you take Through the dark you go Wounds and scars exposed Healing light shines through Transmuting pain Clearing shadows terrain Revealing the real you I process through Misbeliefs subdued Your power reclaimed Wholeness gained, forever you My resolve stays true With each step in the work we do I restructure you I remake you Since you've gone I've been lost without a trace I face this void, I keep crying I restructure you, I remake you Oh, can't you see

Every bond you break (I'll be watchin' you) Every single day, every word you say Every game you play (I'll be watchin' you) Every move you make, every vow you break Every smile you fake (I'll be watchin' you) Every single day, every word you say Every game you play (I'll be watchin' you) Every breath you take, every move you make Every bond you break (I'll be watchin' you) Every single day, every word you say Every game you play (I'll be watchin' you) Every move you make, every vow you break Every smile you fake (I'll be watchin' you) Every single day, every word you say Every game you play (I'll be watchin' you)	You're not the prisoner you used to be...
