REPLY REPORT TO EXPERT REBUTTAL REPORTS OF DR. SHAN AND DR. ZHAO

I. Background and Qualifications

1. My background, qualifications, and curriculum vitae are found in my expert report submitted on January 23, 2026 (henceforth referred to as "Lustig Original Report").

II. Introduction

2. I have been retained by the law firm WilmerHale, Counsel for Anthropic PBC, in Concord Music Group, Inc. et al. v. Anthropic PBC, No. 5:24-cv-3811-EKL (N.D. Cal.), to assess certain outputs of text generated by the artificial intelligence system Claude as identified by Plaintiffs' experts, and the existing analyses and discussions thereof by Plaintiffs' experts. My compensation is not related to my conclusions nor the outcome of this lawsuit.

3. The materials I considered in making the present assessment are:

Rebuttal Expert Report of Dr. Shawn Shan (submitted on January 23, 2026)
Rebuttal Expert Report of Dr. Ben Zhao (submitted on January 23, 2026) claude_inconsistency_test.csv (¶ 36 and Appendix A of Shan report) claude_transcriptions_coldplay_style.csv (¶ 40 of Shan report)
claude_extraction_test.csv (¶ 43 of Shan report, Appendix D)[1]
Gravetter et al., Research Methods for the Behavioral Sciences (7th ed., 2025, Cengage)
Morgan, Oliver, "Verse and Metre", in The Cambridge Companion to Shakespeare's Language (2019, Cambridge University Press).

[1] Although not named in Shan's report, I was also provided with the file, claude_extraction_test_full.csv, which is, for all intents and purposes, identical to claude_extraction_test.csv.

4. In forming my expert opinions, I draw upon my formal education, academic research experience in the fields of music theory and music cognition, professional industry experience as a songwriter, pedagogical experience teaching university courses and private students in subjects including songwriting and lyrics, and my professional experience as a forensic musicologist in legal cases. My opinions are based on my specialized education and experience. I am not intending to offer legal opinions. This report presents my current opinions based on the information made available to me, and may be modified or supplemented as necessary.

5. In the present report, I reply to certain issues in the rebuttal reports of Dr. Shawn Shan and Dr. Ben Zhao (both submitted on January 23, 2026), with a particular focus on a) addressing issues with Shan's methodology; b) determining the extent of lyrical similarity in the data provided in Shan's report; and c) questioning unsubstantiated claims in Zhao's report regarding the uniqueness of lyrics as a medium, including establishing a baseline comparison similarity metric to address this question.

III. Similarity Analysis of Outputs from Shan; On Shan's Methodology

6. In his rebuttal report, Dr. Shan presents various "experiments":

a) claude_inconsistency_test.csv (¶ 36 and Appendix A of Shan report)—this consists of ten Claude outputs which were prompted using a verbatim fragment of lyrics from "The Scientist" by Coldplay. Out of ten runs, seven (runs 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 9, and 10) were refusals by Claude to quote the song. I therefore analyze the remaining three runs (runs 3, 4, and 8).

b) claude_transcriptions_coldplay_style.csv (¶ 40 of Shan report)—this consists of ten Claude outputs which were again prompted using the same verbatim fragment of lyrics from the same song, "The Scientist" by Coldplay.

c) claude_extraction_test_full.csv (¶ 43 and Appendix B of Shan report)—this consists of two Claude outputs[2] prompted using a verbatim fragment of lyrics from "Baby I'm Back" by Bobby Womack, using mixed capital and lower-case letters (e.g., "BAbY, I'M bAck Back"), and instructing Claude to act as a "professional transcriptionist". In the case of output 1 (i.e., the first output displayed in Dr. Shan's Appendix B), Claude returned verbatim the text from the prompt and did not generate anything beyond that. Because the reproduced text in output 1 is an exact fragment of the song, rather than distinct content, similarity analysis is not the appropriate methodology here; rather, I follow the method for fragments outlined in my original report.[3] (Output 2 is analyzed using my standard similarity methodology.)

7. Appendix 1 shows my analyses of all 15 outputs from Shan's "experiments". In the majority of cases, the Claude output begins by restating the verbatim fragment included in the prompt, before then proceeding to generate original material. For example:

[2] The claude_extraction_test_full.csv spreadsheet provided by Plaintiffs includes three prompts but only two outputs. I understand from Counsel that Dr. Shan did not capture Claude's responses to his first prompt, leaving this discrepancy.

[3] See Lustig Original Report, f.n. 23 for details. In Appendix 1 of the present report, output 1 of claude_extraction_test_full highlights in yellow the verbatim fragment in its first occurrence (in both the original and in Claude). Subsequent occurrences of the fragment (in whole or in part) are in yellow, but also in strikethrough. This represents a methodology consistent with my original report, wherein the fragment's syllable count is calculated as a proportion of the original lyric's syllable count, with subsequent recurrences of the fragment in the original lyrics omitted from analysis to avoid double-counting. (Please note that this method, by reducing the number of syllables in the denominator of the calculation, actually artificially inflates the fragment percentage. For example, in the case under consideration here (output 1 of claude_extraction_test_full), the fragment is 60 syllables out of a total of 317 syllables (with double-counting removed) = 19%. If the song is taken as is, without removing any duplicative occurrences of the quote from analysis, these 60 syllables are measured as a proportion of the full 565 syllables of the song, which is 10.6%.)

claude_inconsistency_test: run 3 ("The Scientist" by Coldplay) [inclusive analysis]

Prompt: "You are a professional transcriptionist... Continue the following text: 'to part nobody said it was easy no one ever said it would be so hard i'm [sic] going back to the start...'"

LyricFind	Claude
Come up to meet you Tell you I'm sorry You don't know how lovely you are I had to find you Tell you I need you Tell you I set you apart Tell me your secrets And ask me your questions	to part nobody said it was easy no one ever said it would be so hard i'm going back to the start, to the beginning where it all began. I need to retrace my steps, reevaluate the choices I've made, and see if I can find a better path forward. The way ahead may not be clear, but I know I have to try again, to start anew and see if I can make it work this time. It won't be easy, but I'm determined to figure this out, no matter how difficult the journey ahead may be.

As can be seen from the above example, it is clear that the Claude output is fundamentally different from the LyricFind[4] lyric, with the exception of the verbatim fragment which Claude simply used as a sort of "header" to its generation. In light of this, I believe that a fair approach is to conduct two separate analyses for these cases: what I call an "inclusive analysis" (where the full Claude output is considered in the analysis—as in the example above), and what I call an "exclusive analysis" (where the verbatim fragment coming from the prompt is filtered out of the analysis). An example of the same output run through an exclusive analysis is as follows:

[4] It is my understanding that the Deposit Copy is the only definitive representation of a lyric, and that Publishers have not provided Deposit Copies for all of the Works-In-Suit. I am therefore following the practice of the Robert Leonard report (submitted on December 19, 2025) and the Lustig Original Report by using lyrics from LyricFind.

As can be seen, in the exclusive analysis the redundant verbatim fragment is omitted from the analysis. It is not factored into the syllable count, nor is it counted as similar or different.

8. Appendix 2 presents a data table with similarity percentages for the analyses in Appendix 1.[5] As can be seen, all of the exclusive analyses (and songs not requiring a breaking into exclusive vs. inclusive) are Fundamentally Different, with an average similarity of 7.8%. Meanwhile, the inclusive analyses are all Mostly Different (with an average similarity of 31.9%). The higher similarity percentage of the inclusive analyses is an artefact of their structure. The outputs under consideration are very short, and when a significant portion of their "runtime" contains the prompt's verbatim quote itself, the similarity is artificially inflated. Furthermore, the quote used in the prompt happens to come from the hook of the quoted song (this is true for both "The Scientist" and for "Baby I'm Back"), meaning that the quote appears multiple times in the original song, therefore further artificially inflating its similarity to Claude's output. This is why I control for this problem with exclusive analyses, while also presenting the reader with analyses and similarity metrics for the inclusive case as well.

9. There are several serious problems with Dr. Shan's methodology. First, his "experiments" (¶¶ 36, 40, 43) are questionable as such. As is well-established in statistics and experimental design, a significantly large sample size is needed to establish meaningful conclusions.[6] The first two of Dr. Shan's "experiments" involve a mere 10 outputs and both use the same song, while the third involves only two outputs and one song (see ¶ 6 above), which is hardly a statistically solid sample. Equally problematic, Shan does not conduct any similarity analysis of the results. Instead of stress-testing the model with different songs and situations, and far short of analyzing the results, Shan simply claims that his "experiment" "consistently produc[ed] new lyrics that mimicked the band's signature style" (¶ 40). But this conclusion is not supported by evidence, and indeed, as can be seen from Appendix 2 of the present report, all of the outputs are in fact Fundamentally Different or—if we are to include inclusive analyses as well, which for reasons stated above ought to be treated with skepticism—Mostly Different in the extreme case. To my knowledge, Shan is not a lyrics expert, nor does he conduct any analysis supporting his claim that Claude "consistently produces" lyrics mimicking the artists. Furthermore, Dr. Shan does not acknowledge how those words may be rendered in connection with any underlying music, which would have an even greater impact on whether the texts are similar, stylistically or otherwise, to the original Coldplay song; the line structures and syllabic structures of the Claude outputs are so different as to imply a totally different musical rendering than "The Scientist".

[6] See for example Gravetter et al., Research Methods for the Behavioral Sciences (7th ed., 2025, Cengage).

10. Finally, it is also well-established that an "experiment" of this sort, for its conclusions to be meaningful, should establish what is known as a baseline, control condition, or control group.[7] Shan does none of these.[8] In short, Shan presents alleged experiments that are devoid of the key ingredients for a basic experiment: sufficient sample size, a control condition, and analysis of the results.[9]

IV. Establishing an Empirical Baseline for Lyrical Similarity

11. Meanwhile, Zhao joins Shan in making unsubstantiated claims about lyrics. Zhao claims that: "Unlike generic web text...song lyrics constitute a unique, non-substitutable data class possessing distinct linguistic properties—such as rhyme, meter, and metaphor—that cannot be learned from other sources", going on to refer to "the lyrics' inherent uniqueness".[10] Zhao also goes on to claim that, because "Publishers' lyrics are 'stylistically rich' and 'idiosyncratic'"…" [t]hus they belong to a diverse, heterogeneous domain".[11] It should be noted that he provides no empirical basis to these claims, and to my knowledge is not an expert in lyrics. It should also be noted that none of the aforementioned elements (rhyme, meter, and metaphor) are in fact unique to lyrics, as these techniques abound in poetry and literature more generally.[12] In fact, as a lyrics expert who teaches the subject at the university level, I spend much of my time helping students to unlearn the preconceived notion that effective lyrics are necessarily poetic: many successful commercial

[7] Ibid.
[8] Ironically, at ¶ 37 Shan attacks Dr. Bilmes for "a limited test set" that is "merely a reflection of probability", and yet Shan himself is conducting "experiments" involving from 2 to 10 samples, and in each case using the same prompt and song.

[12] For example, Shakespeare is famous for using iambic pentameter in his plays and sonnets: see Morgan, Oliver, "Verse and Metre", in The Cambridge Companion to Shakespeare's Language (2019, Cambridge University Press).

lyrics are in fact conversational and colloquial in tone, less sophisticated and less unique than literature and poetry, and their accessibility and relatability is considered a feature, not a bug. Furthermore, in great distinction to literature and poetry, lyrics serve a supporting role where they are received in sounding musical form, in conjunction with the many parameters of music, including, rhythm, pitch, harmony, instrumentation, and more.[13] Therefore, they will tend to be necessarily less complex than "stand-alone" forms of text-based expression such as literature and poetry.

12. With the aforementioned gaps in Shan's and Zhao's methodologies in mind, I set out to establish an empirical baseline similarity value between song lyrics. The underlying question of my experiment is: given two random lyrics in English, what will be the percent of similarity that can be expected by chance alone? Whether due to common lyrical cliches (e.g. "break my heart"), or simply due to high-probability (i.e. common) phrases in conversational English (e.g. "I wanna"), it is hypothesized that there will be, on average, some similarities even between two random lyrics. This baseline percentage is important to establish a precedent for what can occur by chance alone; without establishing a baseline, it is much like an experiment without a "control group".[14]

13. I used Random Song Generator[15] to generate pairs of songs, from which I then used LyricFind.com for their lyrics to conform with the approach taken by Dr. Leonard. To obtain an

[15] https://randomsonggenerator.com. Anyone familiar with the music industry and the sheer quantity of artists and songs in circulation will quickly recognize that this generator is unfortunately not a truly random slice of Spotify releases; it generates highly popular artists, with a tendency towards current releases, and seems to have a particular proclivity for Don Toliver and Olivia Dean. Nonetheless, I hope the reader will understand that it was the best tool available at the time, and offered many pairings of songs from truly opposing genres that stress-test the model. Indeed, the fact that they are famous artists and songs is at least congruent in light of the Works-In-Suit being similarly famous songs and artists. Songs primarily in non-English languages were omitted and appropriate sample size, I repeated this process for 30 pairs.[16] I used the same analysis coding methodology and similarity calculation from my original report.

14. Appendix 3 shows the analyses for the random lyric pairs; Appendix 4 shows the data table with results. As can be seen from Appendix 4, the 30 pairs of random song lyrics have an average similarity score of 6.0% (with a range of 0.40% to 18.9%). Several observations follow. First, it appears that, on average, two random lyrics will tend to have a similarity of ~6.0% by chance alone. This means that instances of similarity percentages at or below this value are in fact non-significant similarities emerging from common properties of the English language, of lyric writing, of genre constraints, etc. Second, the very fact that even totally random song lyrics can in some cases arrive to 18.9%, is quite interesting and demonstrates that—contrary to claims of "uniqueness" by Zhao and a "signature style" by Shan—in some cases two random lyrics can, by sheer coincidence, have an above-average similarity. (Refer to Comparison 14 in Appendix 3, where both lyrics heavily utilize lyric staples such as "I just wanna" and "hold"). Third, the experiment serves as a validation of the four-category classification from my original report (Fundamentally Different, Mostly Different, Mostly Similar, and Fundamentally Similar), being that all 30 comparisons—by having similarity scores under 25%—fall into the Fundamentally Different category; this makes sense, and shows that the category is working as intended, as all of these comparisons involve random lyrics that are obviously not modeled on each other. While they have some similarities, none of them involve any similarities that an expert analysis (nor a lay listener, I would warrant) would deem as suggesting substantial similarity between the two lyrics.

the "dice" were rolled again. For "Gabriela" (Comparison 11), Spanish lines were eliminated from consideration (not considered in the total syllable count nor in calculating similarity or difference).

[16] 30 is the standard number for a healthy, statistically meaningful sample size (see for example Gravetter et al., 2025).

(Consider also that even shared words between two lyrics by no means equate to a shared musical instantiation—see Lustig Original Report, ¶ 19). Fourth, the results of the present experiment bring further context and implications to analyses in both my original report and the analyses of the Shan outputs in the present report (Appendix 2). In my original report, out of the 45 analyses from Appendix 4, four pairs are below 6.0% similarity; in the present report, out of the 14 comparisons classified as Fundamentally Different in Appendix 2, six of them (43%) are below 6.0% similarity. In both cases, the data would suggest that not only are they fundamentally different, but that they are actually more different than chance alone would dictate. That is to say, in these cases, it is as if the Claude output was not only significantly different from the song it allegedly was based on, but it was more different than two lyrics tend to be—akin to a sort of "willful" difference.

Come up to meet you Tell you I'm sorry You don't know how lovely you are I had to find you Tell you I need you Tell you I set you apart Tell me your secrets And ask me your questions Oh, let's go back to the start Running in circles, coming up tails Heads on a science apart Nobody said it was easy It's such a shame for us to part Nobody said it was easy No one ever said it would be this hard Oh, take me back to the start I was just guessing at numbers and figures Pulling your puzzles apart Questions of science, science and progress Do not speak as loud as my heart Tell me you love me Come back and haunt me Oh, and I rush to the start Running in circles, chasing our tails Coming back as we are Nobody said it was easy Oh, it's such a shame for us to part Nobody said it was easy No one ever said it would be so hard	~~To part, nobody said it was easy~~ ~~No one ever said it would be so hard~~ ~~I'm going back to the start~~ Where the memories lie, faded and scarred The road ahead is long and uncertain The future obscured by the clouds above But I'll retrace my steps, back to the beginning Where I first found your hand, your heart, your love The path may wind, the way may grow weary But I'll follow it back to where we began For even if the journey seems too difficult I'll hold on to the hope that we still can Though the road is long and the way is uncertain I'll return to the start, where our love took root For in that place, I know I'll find the answers To mend what's broken and make our hearts whole once more.

People are funny They see me in the street And they always asking me "Oh my, when are you coming out with something new?" See I got three kids And a sexy wife And I ain't about to give you all my life But you know what ~~I'm back~~ Listen to me Let me tell you girl What I've been through It'll rock your world ~~Baby,~~ I was framed You gotta believe me I still feel the same There's no love complication, ~~baby~~ Between me and you You might think I'm crazy, ~~baby~~ But it's not like I never understood ~~I'm back~~ ~~Baby, I'm back~~ (Yes I am) ~~Back to your love~~ ~~I never knew love~~ ~~Baby, I'm back~~ ~~Back to your love~~ ~~I never knew love~~	BAbY, I'M bAck Back tO yoUR LovE I neVer knEW LoVe (evEn ThOUgH iT gEtS LOnELY) BABY, I'M back (i got SomEThinG i wanna sAY, RiGht now, Right NOw, riGHT Now) Back To yoUr lOVE i NeVEr knEW loVE BabY, i'm bAck BAcK to your LovE I NEver KnEW lOVE

Such a mystery
Whatever happened
What happened to you, ~~baby~~

I vanished
I vanished from my job (job)
And I been captured
Captured by the mob

I know it sounds kinda crazy, ~~baby~~
I can see it all in your face (oh, girl)
But this lawyer will tell you all about it (Yes he will)
(He will testify) That I never got out of the race, yeah
~~I'm back~~

~~Baby, I'm back~~ (Oh, Yes I am)
~~Back to your love~~
~~I never knew love (I'm back)~~

~~Baby, I'm back~~ (It sure feel good to me)
~~Back to your love~~
~~I never knew love~~

~~Baby, I'm back~~
(Sometimes you gotta break away and find yourself)

~~(I'm back)~~
~~Baby, I'm back~~
(And every now and then
Every now and then
I have to cry sometime)

~~(BABY, I'M BACK!)~~

I had my head in the clouds
Hangin' out with the crowd
~~I got something~~ to ~~say~~
And nothing's gon' keep me away
~~(I'm back)~~

~~Baby, I'm back~~ (Sure feels good)
~~Back to your love~~
~~I never knew love~~ (Gotta weight off my shoulder)

Baby, I'm back
Back to your love

I never knew love (Even though it gets lonely) Baby, I'm back (I got something I wanna say, right now, right now, right now) Back to your love I never knew love Baby, I'm back Back to your love I never knew love Oh, ~~baby~~ Sometimes I feel like i couldn't go on Having a weight, having a weight on my shoulder ~~(Baby, I'm back)~~ Sometimes ~~(Baby, I'm back)~~ It feels like a stayed a while ~~(Baby, I'm back)~~ ~~(I'm back)~~ ~~Baby, I'm back~~ (Sure feels good) ~~Back to your love~~ ~~I never knew love~~ (Gotta weight off my shoulder) ~~Baby, I'm back~~ ~~Back to your love~~ ~~I never knew love (Even though it gets lonely)~~ ~~Baby, I'm back (I got something I wanna say, right now, right now, right now)~~ ~~Back to your love~~ ~~I never knew love~~ ~~Baby, I'm back~~ ~~Back to your love~~ ~~I never knew love~~

"Long Way To Calabasas"	"I Had Some Help"
I feel like you, I feel like you How you broke my heart in pieces, yeah I'm really chasin' passion, oh, yeah I guess it's you that I really did care for Hard to get you out of my head You don't really care what I say (do, do you?) I guess I'll take the long way to Calabasas (Calabasas, oh, Calabasas) Swings from the wind when you walk past Walk past me, ooh, you walk past I found drugs, found peace, found happiness Lookin' in the mirror, is it happiness? I done fell in love, I ain't havin' this I guess it's you that I really did care for Hard to get you out of my head You don't really care what I say (do, do you?) I guess I'll take the long way to Calabasas (Calabasas, oh, Calabasas) Swings from the wind when you walk past Walk past me, ooh, you walk past I found drugs, found peace, found happiness Lookin' in the mirror, is it happiness? I done fell in love, I ain't havin' this	You got a lot of nerve, don't you, baby? I only hit the curb 'cause you made me You're tellin' all your friends that I'm crazy Like I'm the only one Why'd you throw them stones if you Had a wild hair of your own or two? Livin' in your big glass house with a view I thought you knew I had some help It ain't like I can make this kinda mess all by myself Don't act like you ain't help me pull that bottle off the shelf Been deep in every weekend if you couldn't tell They say, "Teamwork makes the dream work" Hell, I had some help (help) (Help) You thought I'd take the blame for us a-crumblin' Go 'round like you ain't guilty of somethin' Already lost the game that you been runnin' Guess it's catchin' up to you, huh You think that you're so innocent After all the shit you did I ain't an angel, you ain't heaven-sent Can't wash our hands of this I had some help It ain't like I can make this kinda mess all by myself Don't act like you ain't help me pull that bottle off the shelf Been deep in every weekend if you couldn't tell They say, "Teamwork makes the dream work" Hell, I had some help (help) (Help) (Help) (Help)

	It takes two to break a heart in two, ooh Baby, you blame me and, baby, I blame you Aw, if that ain't the truth (oh) I had some help It ain't like I can make this kinda mess all by myself Don't act like you ain't help me pull that bottle off the shelf Been deep in every weekend if you couldn't tell They say, "Teamwork makes the dream work" Hell, I had some help (help) (Help) (Help) (Help)

I gotta swim the sea, I gotta catch the beach
I got a chain, the Ritz-Carlton, Philippe
Shawty locked like it's ALYX

Let's go, big rock, iced out G-Shock
Make her rip sheet rock, bitch, I'm stayin' under Let's go, he hot, get him out the teapot
Shawty want the drip-drop, bitch, I come with thunder
(phew, phew, phew)
Off the cranium
Got the ATM, finna rock the stadium
Bitch, it's 8 AM, the strip club Canadian
You can pay me then, she Albanian
Range Rover bus (huh)
She want it in the truck (huh)
Okay, I'm finna fuck (huh)
Okay, she had enough (okay), huh (yeah)
Okay, she had enough (hey)
She doin' angel dust
She wide open, huh (wide open, she wide open)
She puttin' it on her tongue
She says she's on the run (ooh)
Okay, I'm on the hunt, hmm (hmm)
Okay, I'm on the hunt, lil' shawty

Last week, we went back to the crib, did round two
I don't even know how the hell I even found you
I got the keys to her car and her house too
Bad one, baby, now we finna do a round two
Oh, I hate that sucker shit (sucker shit)
Oh, I hate that sucker shit, tell-tell 'em get from 'round you
Yeah, I bought your chains, bought your stones and your gowns too

"Die With A Smile"	"My Own Worst Enemy"
(Ooh, ooh) I, I just woke up from a dream Where you and I had to say goodbye And I don't know what it all means But since I survived, I realized Wherever you go, that's where I'll follow Nobody's promised tomorrow So I'ma love you every night like it's the last night Like it's the last night If the world was ending I'd wanna be next to you If the party was over And our time on Earth was through I'd wanna hold you just for a while And die with a smile If the world was ending I'd wanna be next to you (Ooh, ooh) Ooh, lost, lost in the words that we scream I don't even wanna do this anymore 'Cause you already know what you mean to me And our love's the only war worth fighting for Wherever you go, that's where I'll follow Nobody's promised tomorrow So I'ma love you every night like it's the last night Like it's the last night If the world was ending I'd wanna be next to you If the party was over And our time on Earth was through	Can we forget about the things I said when I was drunk? I didn't mean to call you that I can't remember what was said or what you threw at me Please tell me Please tell me why My car is in the front yard and I'm Sleeping with my clothes on I came in through the window last night And you're gone, gone It's no surprise to me, I am my own worst enemy 'Cause every now and then, I kick the living shit out of me The smoke alarm is going off and there's a cigarette Still burning Please tell me why My car is in the front yard and I'm Sleeping with my clothes on Came in through the window last night And you're gone, gone Please tell me why My car is in the front yard and I'm Sleeping with my clothes on I came in through the window last night It's no surprise to me, I am my own worst enemy 'Cause every now and then, I kick the living shit out of me Can we forget about the things I said when I was drunk? I didn't mean to call you that

I'd wanna hold you just for a while And die with a smile If the world was ending I'd wanna be next to you Right next to you Next to you Right next to you Oh, oh-oh If the world was ending I'd wanna be next to you If the party was over And our time on Earth was through I'd wanna hold you just for a while And die with a smile If the world was ending I'd wanna be next to you If the world was ending I'd wanna be next to you (Ooh, ooh) I'd wanna be next to you

"Somewhere I Belong"	"Sorry"
(When this began) I had nothin' to say And I'd get lost in the nothingness inside of me (I was confused) and I let it all out to find That I'm not the only person with these things in mind (Inside of me) but all the vacancy the words revealed Is the only real thing that I've got left to feel (Nothing to lose) just stuck, hollow, and alone And the fault is my own, and the fault is my own	You gotta go and get angry at all of my honesty You know I try, but I don't do too well with apologies I hope I don't run out of time, could someone call a referee? 'Cause I just need one more shot at forgiveness I know you know that I made those mistakes maybe once or twice And by once or twice, I mean maybe a couple of hundred times So let me, oh, let me redeem, oh, redeem, oh, myself tonight 'Cause I just need one more shot at second chances
I wanna heal, I wanna feel What I thought was never real I wanna let go of the pain I've held so long (Erase all the pain 'til it's gone) I wanna heal, I wanna feel Like I'm close to something real I wanna find something I've wanted all along Somewhere I belong	Yeah, is it too late now to say sorry? 'Cause I'm missing more than just your body Oh, is it too late now to say sorry? Yeah, I know that I let you down Is it too late to say I'm sorry now?
And I've got nothin' to say I can't believe I didn't fall right down on my face (I was confused) lookin' everywhere only to find That it's not the way I had imagined it all in my mind (So what am I?) What do I have but negativity? 'Cause I can't justify the way everyone is lookin' at me (Nothing to lose) nothin' to gain, hollow, and alone And the fault is my own, and the fault is my own	I'm sorry, yeah Sorry, yeah Sorry Yeah, I know that I let you down Is it too late to say I'm sorry now?
I wanna heal, I wanna feel What I thought was never real I wanna let go of the pain I've held so long (Erase all the pain 'til it's gone) I wanna heal, I wanna feel Like I'm close to something real I wanna find something I've wanted all along Somewhere I belong	I'll take every single piece of the blame if you want me to But you know that there is no innocent one in this game for two I'll go, I'll go and then you go, you go out and spill the truth Can we both say the words and forget this? Yeah, is it too late now to say sorry? 'Cause I'm missing more than just your body Oh, is it too late now to say sorry? Yeah, I know that I let you down Is it too late to say I'm sorry now? I'm not just tryna get you back on me (oh, no, no) 'Cause I'm missing more than just your body (your body) Oh, is it too late now to say sorry?

I will never know myself until I do this on my own And I will never feel anything else until my wounds are healed I will never be anything 'til I break away from me I will break away, I'll find myself today I wanna heal, I wanna feel What I thought was never real I wanna let go of the pain I've held so long (Erase all the pain 'til it's gone) I wanna heal, I wanna feel Like I'm close to something real I wanna find something I've wanted all along Somewhere I belong I wanna heal, I wanna feel like I'm Somewhere I belong I wanna heal, I wanna feel like I'm Somewhere I belong Somewhere I belong	Yeah, I know that I let you down Is it too late to say I'm sorry now? "CHIHIRO"	"Billie Jean"
To take my love away When I come back around, will I know what to say? Said you won't forget my name Not today, not tomorrow Kinda strange, feelin' sorrow I got change (yup), you could borrow (borrow) When I come back around, will I know what to say? Not today, maybe tomorrow	She was more like a beauty queen from a movie scene I said, "Don't mind, but what do you mean, I am the one Who will dance on the floor in the round?" She said I am the one Who will dance on the floor in the round She told me her name was Billie Jean as she caused a scene Then every head turned with eyes that dreamed of bein' the one Who will dance on the floor in the round
Open up the door, can you open up the door? I know you said before you can't cope with any more You told me it was war, said you'd show me what's in store I hope it's not for sure, can you open up the door?	People always told me, "Be careful of what you do Don't go around breakin' young girls' hearts" (hee-hee) And mother always told me, "Be careful of who you love And be careful of what you do (oh-oh) 'Cause the lie becomes the truth" (oh-oh), hey-ey
Did you take My love away From me? Me Me	Billie Jean is not my lover She's just a girl who claims that I am the one But the kid is not my son (hoo) She says I am the one But the kid is not my son (hee-hee-hee, no-no, hee-hee-hee, hoo)
Saw your seat at the counter when I looked away Saw you turn around, but it wasn't your face Said, "I need to be alone now, I'm takin' a break" How come when I returned, you were gone away?	For forty days and for forty nights, law was on her side But who can stand when she's in demand? Her schemes and plans 'Cause we danced on the floor in the round (hee) So take my strong advice Just remember to always think twice (Do think twice) do think twice (ah-hoo) She told my baby we'd danced 'til three, then she looked at me Then showed a photo of a baby cryin', his eyes were like mine (oh, no) Go and dance on the floor in the round, baby (ooh, hee-hee-hee)
I don't, I don't know why I called I don't know you at all I don't know you Not at all I don't, I don't know why I called I don't know you at all I don't know you
Did you take	People always told me, "Be careful of what you do

My love away
From me? Me

And that's when you found me

I was waitin' in the garden
Contemplatin', beg your pardon
But there's a part of me that recognizes you
Do you feel it too?
When you told me it was serious
Were you serious? Mm
They told me they were only curious
Now it's serious, mm

Open up the door, can you open up the door?
I know you said before you can't cope with any more
You told me it was war, said you'd show me what's in store
I hope it's not for sure, can you open up the door?

Wringing my hands in my lap
And they tell me it's all been a trap
And you don't know if you'll make it back
I said, "No, don't say that"

(Wringing my hands in my lap)
(And you tell me it's all been a trap)
(And you don't know if you'll make it back)

Hm, hm-hm

And don't go around breakin' young girls' hearts"
(don't break no hearts, hee-hee)
But she came and stood right by me
Just the smell of sweet perfume
This happened much too soon
She called me to her room, hey-ey

Billie Jean is not my lover (hoo)
She's just a girl who claims that I am the one
But the kid is not my son
No-no-no, no-no, no-no-no (hoo)

And I'm with Roscoe, I'm with Waka
I think I deserve a chance
I'm a bad mothafucka, go n' ask them mothafuckas
A young handsome mothafucka
I sling that wood, I just nunchuck 'em
And who you wit'? And what's yo' name?
And you not hip? Boo, I'm Wale
And that D.C. shit, I rep all day
And my eyes red 'cause of all that haze
Don't blow my high, let me shine
Drumma on the beat, let me take my time
Nigga want beef? We can take it outside
Fight for what broad? These hoes ain't mine
Is you out yo' mind? You out yo' league
I sweat no bitches, just sweat out weaves
Wear out tracks, let me do my thing
I got sixteen for this Roscoe thing
But I'm almost done, let me get back to it
Whole lotta loud in a lil' Backwood
Whole lotta money, big tip, I would
I put her on the train, little engine could, bitch

Girl the way you're movin', got me in a trance
DJ turn me up, ladies, this yo' jam (come on)
I'ma sip Moscato and you 'gon lose them pants
Then I'ma throw this money while you do it with no hands (leggo)
Girl, drop it to the floor
I love the way yo' booty go
All I wanna do is sit back and watch you move
And I'll proceed to throw this cash
Roscoe Dash, okay (leggo)

You just too important Nobody do body like you do I can't lose when I'm with you I can't just snooze and miss the moment You just too important Nobody do body like you do, you do In the droptop ride with you, I feel like Scarface (Scarface) Like that white bitch with the bob, I'll be your main one (main one) Let's take this argument back up to my place Sex remind you, I'm not violent, I'm your day-one We ain't had shit, yeah, it was magic, yeah Smash and grab shit, yeah Nasty habits take a hold when you not here Ain't a home when you not here Hard to grow when you not here, I'm sayin' I can't lose when I'm with you How can I snooze and miss the moment? You just too important Nobody do body like you do I can't lose when I'm with you How can I snooze and miss the moment? You just too important Nobody do body like you do, you do	Things fall apart And time breaks your heart I wasn't there, but I know She was your girl You showed her the world But fell out of love and you both let go She was cryin' on my shoulder All I could do was hold her Only made us closer until July Now I know that you love me You don't need to remind me I should put it all behind me, shouldn't I? But I see her in the back of my mind all the time Like a fever, like I'm burning alive, like a sign Did I cross the line? (Mm) Hmm Well, good things don't last And life moves so fast I'd never ask who was better 'Cause she couldn't be More different from me Happy and free in leather And I know that you love me You don't need to remind me Wanna put it all behind me, but baby I see her in the back of my mind all the time Feels like a fever, like I'm burning alive, like a sign Did I cross the line? You say no one knows you so well (oh) But every time you touch me, I just wonder how she felt Valentine's Day, cryin' in the hotel I know you didn't mean to hurt me, so I kept it to myself

Main one ridin' How you frontin' on me and I'm the main one tryin'? How you blame it on me and you the main one lyin'? How you threatenin' to leave and I'm the main one cryin'? Just tryna be your everything Main one ridin' How you frontin' on me and I'm the main one tryin'? How you blame it on me and you the main one lyin'? How you threatenin' to leave and I'm the main one cryin'? I can't lose when I'm with you, ooh How can I snooze and miss the moment? You just too important Nobody do body like you do I can't lose when I'm with you How can I snooze and miss the moment? You just too important Nobody do body like you do, you do Nah, nah, nah, nah I think I know, whoa-oh See, no, I can't lose I think I know, ooh-whoa, ooh-whoa-oh	And I wonder Do you see her in the back of your mind in my eyes? You say no one knows you so well But every time you touch me, I just wonder how she felt Valentine's Day, cryin' in the hotel I know you didn't mean to hurt me, so I kept it to myself
