  Regurgitation has come up repeatedly as a problem for us when we are deploying models. You, Alex, had to solve it for GPT, and Alex Nichols had to solve it for DALL-E. At this point, we should be thinking about it for every large model we train that we want to release.

Should we have a joint tech talk from you and Alex Nichols on anti-regurgitation to raise awareness?

Also, it would be awesome to have a memo.
